Some Like It Hot!

It's obvious to everyone involved in the Vodafone Cup that crowds are down substantially this year, and "Katsa's" article a fortnight ago about the low attendances in this year's competition highlights the pinch that all clubs are facing.

Last year, thanks to the inclusion of former NSL clubs (Heidelberg United, Melbourne Knights, South Melbourne and Sunshine Georgies) crowd figures in the VPL soared to an increase of over 300%. Nearly eighteen months later, some clubs have felt the strain as crowd figures that were budgeted for in 2006, have for one reason or another, fallen well short of the mark. Projections made at the start of the season by committees were not unrealistic, but unfortunately the turnstiles just haven't clicked as much as some were anticipating.

One obvious solution, to reverse this trend and bring many other advantages to the table, is to play the Premier League during the summer months and in line with the A-League competition.

Crowds during the start of the season are up to ten times higher than the later winter months. An obvious reason is the weather. But, the biggest factor is junior soccer, not AFL. As soon as the junior season kicks off, crowds dip substantially. Parents with children playing the sport simply cannot get to a VPL game.

Over the last few weeks however, you've probably noticed that a few VPL fixtures have suffered due to the weather. Some games have been abandoned. Others that got the go ahead after a referee's pitch inspection, saw the state of play decline in trying conditions whilst the risk of injury increased due to the state of the surface. A move to summer soccer would make for better playing conditions.

With the advantage of daylight savings, matches could even kick-off later in the day when temperatures have cooled and thus become more favourable to play in.

Unfortunately, most grounds are not conducive to the harsh realities of Melbourne's winter climate. Oakleigh's crowds at the start of the season are much higher than the crowds they are getting now, which is not a good sign considering they are top of the table.

Let's face it, our facilities cannot compete with the luxurious confines of the indoor Telstra Dom. And when it rains, how many clubs have the adequate shelter from the elements? Apart from the main stadiums in the competition, most facilities are unable to provide comfortably from a Melbourne winter. A switch to summer would allow you to swap your raincoat and flu tablets, for a pair of thongs and a tube of zinc.

Furthermore, with the Melbourne Victory only playing in town every second week, either on a Friday, Saturday, Sunday, or even on a Monday, this type of fixture leaves plenty of room for the VPL to co-exist with the Victory.

The scenario could also be used to benefit the A-league club, as currently there is no second grade or youth team competition in existence. Starting a second tier competition is costly, so the A-league should consider the AFL-VFL club affiliation arrangement, as seen in Aussie Rules. But instead of certain clubs being affiliated with each other, individual Melbourne Victory

"...it would also put a halt to the better Vodafone Cup players embarking on trials with bigger clubs just as their respective club is about to prepare for the all important run-in to the end of the season."

players could be affiliated with certain VPL clubs, hence getting the necessary game time when not selected.

If the FFA and the respective state bodies combined this vision it could also open up possibilities for a meaningful pre-season competition and a truly Australian Cup (Australia's version of the FA Cup). Most people would agree that the A league season is too short. Therefore, why not have rounds of the Australian Cup before the start of the A-League and VPL season? Eg, Australian A-league teams, along with the top six of the Victorian & NSW premier league teams, and also with the champions from WA and SA.

To reduce costs, the first few rounds could be state based.

Finally, with the Vodafone Cup running in sync with the A-League, as well as the rest of the world's football calendar, it would also put a halt to the better Vodafone Cup players embarking on trials with bigger clubs just as their respective club is about to prepare for the all important run-in to the end of the season. Over recent weeks we've seen Heidelberg's Yusef Yusef try his luck at PAOK in Greece, Essendon's Steve Fitzsimmons go on trial to Queensland Roar, Fawkner/Whittlesea's Carl Recchia and Ricky Chillico venture over to the Italian Serie B, just to name a few. Although one would wish any player the best of luck at earning a contract at a higher level, a change of football season would eliminate a clash of wills between players, agents and clubs at such a critical time of the season.

As long as there is a mid-season break to coincide with the Christmas holidays, the positives of a summer league definitely outweigh the negatives.

The national body took a radical step, now it's time for the states to follow suit.

BOUTSI CANNON SINKS SOUTH

OAKLEIGH SECURES MINOR PREMIERSHIP

South Melbourne 0 - 1 Oakleigh Cannons

What the Coaches Said...

John Anastasiadis
Coach, South Melbourne:

Obviously we feel very disappointed. We felt we did enough to get the result but it just didn't turn out for us today. I suppose that's the difference between the two sides, they had the quality to take their chance. Congratulations to the Cannons for securing the minor premiership and we hope now to meet them in the Final.

Stuart Munro
Coach, Oakleigh Cannons:

Obviously it was a pretty fiery game and from our point of view it was important that we got the result to win the minor premiership. It was a very difficult game for us and after we had a man sent off early on South Melbourne made it very difficult for us. All credit to the players who stood up for it in the second half, even though we rode our luck at times, it was a good victory for the club. We know that the finals is a completely different phase and it doesn't matter what you do in the "home and away". Although I'm a bit old fashioned and I think the minor premiership is what it's all about, but here in Australia you've got to win that final series and that's the direction we'll be heading and we'll try and do the best we can.

Con Boutsianis's expertise with the dead ball gave 10 man Oakleigh all three points, and the minor premiership in their 1-0 victory over South Melbourne at Bob Jane Stadium on Sunday evening. South welcomed the experienced Con Blatsis into the starting line up, allowing Tansel Baser to play on the left side of a three man midfield. South coach John Anastasiadis signalled his intention to attack the league leaders by starting with three up front.

Oakleigh looked threatening early on when midfielder Anthony Pelikan struck a long range shot to bring out a diving save from South keeper Dean Anastasiadis. The keeper saved again minutes later when he stopped Juan Nilo's smart backheel from giving the visitors a 1-0 lead.

In an open first half, South's Tansel Baser brought the home crowd to their feet when his 30 metre drive rattled the upright.

A major turning point in the match occurred when Cannons right back Anton Kovacic received a straight red in the 18th minute after his two footed challenge left South forward Bill Natsioulis writhing on the ground and unable to take further part in the game sparking a brief melee. South coach John Anastasiadis stepped in to pull Cannon's George Goutzioulis out of the fray.

When the dust settled, Cannons Coach Stuart Munro pulled midfielder Scott Webster into defense leaving just the three in the middle allowing an even more open game.

South pressed forward looking to capitalize on their advantage.

Baser's volley from a DeMoraes corner in the 23rd minute forced a good save from Cannons keeper Stuart Webster whilst Antonio Naglieri's volley on the end of a flowing string of passes, forced another smart Webster save.

Oakleigh displayed their potency on the counter when Esala Masi's pace left Blatsis in his wake before setting up Pelikan for a blistering 25 metre drive which sailed past the upright.

Another melee occurred just before the break when former South player, George Goutzioulis flung out his arm and connected with current South favourite DeMoraes. The incensed South fans demanded another card, but the referee and his linesman appeared to miss the incident.

The Cannons began the second half in a more conservative frame of mind, defending deep and allowing South possession in their defensive half. After a tight opening quarter of an hour, Nick Curtis's cross found Baser's head which went wide of the post.

The game turned sensationally in the 69th minute with a perfectly timed Cannons substitution. Blatsis was penalized for a foul on Pelikan 25 metres out, and midfielder Bill Damianos set himself to take the kick. On comes Con Boutsianis for Pelikan and Damianos defers to the dead ball expert. Anastasiadis could only stand and watch in admiration as the perfect shot sailed inside his right post.

South stormed forward in the next twenty minutes creating a handful of opportunities which they couldn't take advantage of. Baser, Blatsis and Oliveira went close for South but desperate Oakleigh defense and Stuart Webster heroics in goal kept South at bay and ensured the minor premiership would go east in season 2006.

CAVALIERS LANCE HAPLESS KNIGHTS

GULLY MAKES LATE SURGE INTO FINALS CONTENTION

Melbourne Knights 0 - 2 Green Gully Cavaliers

The Green Gully Cavaliers continued their good form of late, disposing the Melbourne Knights 2-0 at Somers street on Sunday afternoon. The two second half strikes by the Cavaliers leaves the reigning champs on track for a finals berth, whilst leaving the embattled Melbourne Knights in a dog fight for premier league survival.

The visitors were missing in form striker Joel Nikolic and influential midfielder Andy Vargas thru suspension, whilst the Knights yet again fielded an under strength squad, with only five first team regulars in the starting line-up.

The Knights surprisingly created the first chance in the sixth minute, after a defensive error by the visitors allowed Dario Matkovic to unleash a powerful low drive that was well stopped by Gully's teenage Keeper, Ante Loncaric.

After a slow start, the visitors were slowly gaining the ascendancy, with Ljubo Lapsansky turning back the clock with a stellar display in the midfield. For all their toil, the visitors failed to procure any decent chances in the first half. Just before the half hour mark, Richard Cadroza had penalty decision turned down for a strong challenge he received in the penalty area.

The home side blossomed late in the half, as their pace on the flanks, especially the right flank, unsettled Gully's backline. The youthful Knights on a number of occasions showed their more experienced opponents a clean pair of heels on the flanks. However for all their penetration and ensuing crosses from the flanks, the home side failed to get sufficient numbers in the box to cause real concern for the Cavaliers.

Gully charged out of the blocks after the break, and can consider themselves quite unlucky not to take the lead early on in the second half. The visitors had a shot cleared off the goal line within ten minutes of the restart, and a minute later Dean Fak rattled the upright with a header from only a couple of metres out.

The visitors took the lead in the 65th minute after a scintillating run by substitute Serkan Okzus pierced the Knights defence. Okzus rounded off his good work with a clinical finish, giving the visitors a well deserved lead. The Cavaliers extended their lead ten minutes later, after substitute Mathew Saunders was adjudged to be infringed upon in the penalty area. Former Knight, Lapsansky calmly slotted the penalty, securing all three points for the visitors.

Ian Dobson's early second half time substitution of Serkan Oksuz proved to be a match winner, as the explosive forward provided the necessary firepower that the reigning champs

What the Coaches Said...

Joe Spoljar
Coach, Melbourne Knights:

It was a classic game of two halves. We dominated in the first half, creating a few chances...but when you don't take your chances you're always under the pump. Green Gully is obviously a good side and when you play teams that have a great deal of experience and depth it tends to be telling in the end.

Ian Dobson
Coach, Green Gully:

It was another intensive game...both teams needing to win to carry on their existence in the Premier League. It was a very hard game, a hard slog and Melbourne Knights, to their credit, really made a game of it. They really made us work for every kick.

Goran Lozanovski
Coach, Preston Lions:

Great result in the end, especially after our second half performance wasn't the best. We should have scored two or three goals early on, but we didn't, which kept them in the game. In the end it was pretty pleasing even though we made it harder for ourselves. We're just satisfied the result pretty much guaranteed ourselves premier league football for next season.

Serge Costanza
Secretary, Fawknor-Whittlesea Blues:

I felt we were very unlucky. Preston had the best of the play in the first half and our boys were a little bit undermanned. We improved for the second half and the boys gave their all. We actually scored a goal to equalise at 2-2 but it was disallowed for some reason - we accept that and all I can say is that overall it was a fantastic effort.

Man of the Match
Erhan Karahan
(Lions)

The Preston Lions took all the points against Fawknor/Whittlesea in this Round 23 Vodafone Cup clash at BT Conner Reserve on Sunday. The victory was enough to keep the Lions in touch with the top six and at least assure it Premier league football for next season.

The undermanned Fawknor/Whittlesea side did their best but had to rely on player/coach John Markovski to lead the forward line in this the game. With a limited pool of players to select it was always going to be hard for the visitors to get anything from this game.

The Lions threw everything they had at their visitors straight from the start and totally dominated the first 25 minutes. The Lions really should have been at least three or four nil up at half time rather than just being one goal to the good.

Erhan Karahan was a constant thorn in the side down the left hand side and on at least four or five occasions created good scoring chances for his forwards but they were unable to convert. Then on the stroke of the half hour mark the home side found the back of the net when Siveski found himself unmarked at the far post and calmly slotted the ball past stranded Fawknor keeper, Steven Tilovski. It was no more than they deserved as it took their slender lead into the break.

Immediately after the break the visitors seemed to step the pace up and grabbed a surprising equalizing goal when Tony Sterjovski scored in the 47th minute, he finished off a good move which saw a three man move end with the forward leveling the scores.

Moments later The Blues almost went in front when a Jurica Siljanoski found himself with a one on one chance after a scramble in the penalty box only to see the Preston keeper throw himself at the striker's feet much to the relief of the home fans.

That was as close as it got for the visitors as Preston started to really dominant again as they did earlier in the game, once again they created plenty of goal scoring chances but failed to take any of them until the 55th minute when Siveski pick up the ball just outside the penalty area and struck a super shot that gave Tilovski absolutely no chance. The result keeps the Lions in the finals picture along with Green Gully and Richmond. With the support of their very passionate fans and with a couple of games at home to come they will not be far away come finals time.

PINES, GEORGIES FACE HARD ROAD AFTER DRAW

GEORGIES LEVEL PINES BUT REMAIN IN RELEGATION DANGER

Sunshine Georgies 1 - 1 Frankston Pines

What the Coaches Said...

Fab Incantoupo
Asst Coach, Sunshine Georgies:

I thought we were pretty disappointing and our mind set wasn't as it should have been. We didn't get into the game at all. It was always going to be a tough encounter between the two bottom sides which are desperate for points. But as far as we are concerned we didn't approach the game in the best possible way. We're still in it and anyone can survive. We just need to try and get maximum points from the games that remain.

Adam Jamieson
Coach, Frankston Pines:

It was an even sort of game. It was a pretty much a stalemate after the scores were locked a one apiece. Hopefully results today and results tomorrow night go our way and maybe we're still in with a chance.

The Frankston Pines secured a crucial 1-1 away draw against the Sunshine Georgies in Round 23 of the Vodafone Cup yesterday.

All supporters, players and officials of both clubs arrived at Chaplin Reserve fully knowing the implications of a loss in terms of either team's hopes of avoiding the bottom two spots on the table. In the early going of the game it also seemed that both teams knew the gravity of the situation as both were hesitant in terms of not wanting to lose the game.

The game sprang to life 20 minutes into the game when Trent Waterson shook the tight Pines marking to whizz an angled shot across the Pines goal just narrowly going wide. The Pines then seized the initiative when Georgies central defender Daniel Rocco made a huge error and the Pines striker Cameron Metcalff strolled in and found himself one on one with Martin John. John parried the ball but couldn't prevent the ball from trickling into the net and much to the Pines delight they had the lead.

With a 1-0 lead in hand the Pines dropped men behind the ball and attempted to get to the break with the on goal advantage, which they did a pretty good job, deflecting Sunshine's advances. Sunshine's Fidel Richards and Trent Waterson were not holding back about but it seemed that Sunshine just lacked the eye of the tiger.

However virtually on the stroke of half time with perhaps ten or fifteen seconds before the whistle blew Sunshine pushed forward for one last raid and after a number of crosses and switches of play, Trent Waterson was able to chest the ball, dink it around the keeper and cut it back into the goals to level the scores as referee Perry Muir blew for half time.

Sunshine dominated most of the second half and the Pines were playing on the break but the Pines managed to hold back most of the Georgie's attempts on goal and Sunshine seemed to lack that killer punch once again. Fidel Richards, Eduardo Soares, Mark Draycott and Tent Waterson had chances to make something but couldn't and Nick Waite and Metcalff for the Pines also had their chances on the break but neither was able to convert.

In the end the game remained a goal a piece, which leaves Frankston on 22 points and bottom of the ladder, while Sunshine is on 24 points and still thereabouts. Pines have a nightmare run home playing the current top three teams, while Sunshine plays Gully, Heidelberg and the Blues.

Man of the Match

ZEBRAS DO THE TRICK OVER MAGIC

THIRD LOSS IN A ROW FOR ALTONA, ZEBRAS OVERJOYED

Altona Magic 1 - 2 Bulleen Zebras

Bulleen eased relegation fears with a battling 2-1 win over Altona at Paisley Park on Saturday Night. Early goals from Hamlet Armenian and Steve Martin gave the Zebras what proved to be an unassailable lead.

Bulleen controlled possession in the early stages, and that paid off with two well taken goals. The Zebras signalled their intentions in the 11th minute when Ben Harbinson crossed from deep and Magic goalkeeper Bojo Jedjevic had to come quickly off his line to pluck the ball from the head of Hamlet Armenian.

Shortly after in the 15th minute Bulleen got their opener, again courtesy of a quality cross from wide. Ricky Diaco worked his way down the left flank, passed to Damien Gugliemi, and it was his cross swung in for Hamlet Armenian that created the opportunity. Armenian, running through the penalty area, glanced the ball into the top right hand corner, to give Bulleen a 1-0 lead. The quality of Armenian's goal was acknowledged by his jubilant team-mates, and Bulleen had just reward for their early attacking endeavour.

But they weren't done with scoring yet. In the 18th minute Jedjevic came for an Ari Drakos free kick coming in from the right flank, but he fisted the ball straight into a large pack of players. The ball rebounded out of the scramble into the path of Steve Martin, who tapped into an empty net to give the Zebras a 2-0 lead. In the 33rd minute it was Altona's Sash Becvinovski creating problems for Bulleen, running onto a through ball and holding off two defenders to shoot from 10 yards. His shot slewed wide, but referee Jim Ouliaris had seen an infringement, and paid a penalty to the Magic. Becvinovski blasted the ball straight down the middle, Bulleen goalkeeper Tomas Kovar unable to read the penalty. But after pegging the goal back Bulleen continued to control Altona's moves in midfield, Simon Bell particularly energetic with his clean, well-timed tackling.

Bulleen's Simon Bell on the ball

The second half was a tighter affair, but to the Zebras credit they still made the contest a mid-field battle, rather than a rearguard action to hold their lead. In the 51st minute Ricky Diaco was played through at the half way mark, and Jedjevic overran the ball coming off his line. A desperate

Stanko Zilic got across to clear the ball to safety before Diaco could have a pop at the empty net. Altona's search for an equaliser yielded few chances, and in the final 10 minutes a series of free kicks and corners failed to result in a meaningful shot on the target. But before then a few chances went begging for the Magic. In the 56th minute Ivan Razov had a crack from the top of the penalty area, but Kovar saw the ball all the way and dived forward to hold the save. In the 64th minute Arsovski rose highest to a Vasilevski corner but his header slid over the bar. And then in the 77th minute Kovar saved the day for Bulleen with a great parried block after a Vasilevski free kick skimmed off a pack of players. Kovar then went one better to fist the loose ball away. The joy was evident on the faces of the Bulleen players at full time, as survival became all the more realistic, and would you believe it, sixth spot became an attainable target again.

What the Coaches Said...

Vlado Torteovski
Coach, Altona Magic:

It was a very hard game and they scored a couple of early goals, which were defensive mistakes on our part. We managed to come back and possibly could have scored an equaliser in the second half to maybe grab a point. All credit to Bulleen who played better on the day and now we've just got to think about our next game against Frankston.

Michael Michalakopoulos
Coach, Bulleen Zebras:

Very satisfying result and relieved. We worked very hard together as a unit and defended very well. We had eleven workers on the field and it was a huge result against a top three side, away from home. We definitely needed the three points and it was good to have some of our more established players back. Having said that, we had eleven winners across the park on Saturday night.

EAGLES HIT DIZZY HEIGHTS

LATE RESPONSE FROM KINGSTON AS RICHMOND'S RISE CONTINUES

Kingston City 1 - 3 Richmond Eagles

On fire: Young gun Daniel Visevic (left) scored twice while his team-mate Graham Hockless also got on the scoresheet

Rebounding from last week's loss to South Melbourne, Richmond returned to winning form with a 3-1 triumph at Kingston City.

In the opening minute the Eagles showed positive signs of gaining a good result, with a cross from Steve Burton headed wide by Veton Korcarevski from fourteen yards. Three minutes later a cross by Fergal O'Colmain on the left found Burton at the far post but he mis-controlled the ball and the opportunity to shoot went begging. When Kingston went on the counter-attack, Stuart McCluskey fouled Peter Koutsoupas near the halfway line and picked up an early yellow card.

The opening goal of the match came after just nine minutes. Chasing a ball forward O'Colmain beat advancing Reds keeper Daniel Zilic to the ball with an outstretched foot. The ball spilled around the box before it was picked up by Korcarevski who laid it square to the unmarked Daniel Visevic from just inside the penalty area.

When play got back underway James Baskerville charged into the box after a quickly taken free kick for a foul on Visevic, Zilic saving his strike after the Kingston defence recovered to steer Baskerville wide. Koutsoupas tried his luck from long range for the home team, shooting wide after running onto a bouncing ball forward. Two minutes he shot wide again.

ward. Two minutes he shot wide again.

On eighteen minutes McCluskey supplied a cross which Baskerville headed straight at Zilic for an easy save. A Visevic cross then created havoc in the Kingston backline, a clearance falling to O'Colmain who volleyed just wide.

Six minutes later a great ball from Baskerville into the path of Korcarevski saw a penalty awarded when the Richmond striker was brought down by Zilic as he broke into the corner of the box. Graham Hockless stepped up to take the kick with regular taker James Robinson on the bench, and made no mistake to convert and double Richmond's lead.

Richmond remained well on top for the remainder of the opening half. A Semir Sivic corner led to McCluskey forcing a save from Zilic with a header. In the thirty-fifth minute Visevic produced a moment of magic, skinning Con Anthopolous and unleashing a powerful strike from just outside the box which struck the roof of the net for his tenth goal of the season.

Joey Di Iorio forced Nick Crossley into a save early on in the second half, as the home side looked to get back into the match. Richmond replied with O'Colmain heading a free-kick from Burton at Zilic, before Marcus Stergiopoulos made Crossley pull off another good save with a free-kick, the ball being tipped around the post for a corner.

Kingston pulled a goal back in the fifty-sixth minute, Di Iorio beating defenders in the left corner and his cross to Michael Curcija providing him with a simple finish. The league's leading goalscorer notching up his fifteenth of the campaign and giving his side some hope.

In the sixty-sixth minute Curcija tested Richmond again, his free kick headed over the crossbar by Noel Bahnsen. As the game wore on it was apparent that though Kingston were having the better of the half, Richmond would have few problems in holding their lead. Crossley was able to deal with all of Kingston's attacking threats, punching away a free-kick from Jimmy Latinopoulos late in proceedings and then making a save from a follow-up shot. The score re-

Ken Murphy

Coach, Kingston City:

For my last game in charge of Altona, Richmond beat us 1-0 and my thoughts then were that they were an extremely hard running and physically imposing side. I tried to make everyone aware of that, but that they steam-rolled us the first 30 mins and were extremely impressive. We totally dominated the second 45 mins, but that's useless when you're 3-0 down. I take my hat off to Richmond, but we can't afford to do that too often.

Phil Stubbins

Coach, Richmond Eagles:

From our perspective and for the boys that we put on the pitch it was as pleasing as we've seen all season. The boys were tremendous in the first half especially. The second half was obviously a different story, but being 3-0 up at half time was probably game over for them. Kingston had a real go at us after the break and probably had a couple of half chances, but overall it was a thoroughly deserved win for Richmond.

ROYALS READY TO BITE INTO BERGERS

Essendon Royals vs Heidelberg Utd Warriors

With the end of the home and away season fast approaching and the ladder beginning to take shape, Monday night's blockbuster between Essendon and Heidelberg looms as a vital encounter for both sides.

As Heidelberg push to cement a place in the top six, the Royals are fighting for survival, slowly finding themselves dragged into the lower reaches of the Vodafone

Cup table

And while pundits have focused their attention on the fortunes of more recognized clubs, the sudden rise and fall of Essendon has proved to be one of Victorian football's most disappointing tales.

Cast your mind back 12 months ago and the side was a team on the up, challenging for a debut finals appearance and seeming primed for an at times unlikely tilt at the VFL title.

But after the sudden loss of then coach Michael Michalakopoulos and established stars Steve Iosifidis and Michael Curcija at seasons end, the side imploded and plummeted from finals contender to relegation battler. Although the team displayed a unique fighting spirit throughout the current season, a lack of continuity at the helm amongst other factors has led to the side sitting perilously close to the relegation zone in 12th position.

Currently in the midst of a form slump that has produced solely two victories since the end of May, Essendon must dig deep and produce performances of the highest order in the last four rounds to avoid slipping into further peril.

In stark contrast to the Royals fortunes, last year's beaten Grand Finalists, Heidelberg has proved itself to be the most unpredictable side in the entire league. After parting ways with Phil Stubbins midway through the season, pundits predicted Heidelberg's charge for a top two place would unravel and that the side would slowly plummet into the anonymous wastelands of mid-table football.

However, although the first few games under new coach Con Pappas proved shaky, the 'Bergers were able to regain momentum and overcome the bouts of inconsistency which had plagued the side throughout the year.

Now only three points admit of second place and a vital double chance in the finals series, Heidelberg have claimed the scalps of a resurgent Preston and star-studded Kingston City in recent weeks sparking speculation that the side may in fact challenge for the Vodafone Cup crown.

While Heidelberg are in possession of one of the league's most damaging attacks, the team from the Veneto Club have one of the more resolute defences in Victoria, setting the stage for a brilliant 'bout. Nonetheless though, it seems that the 'Bergers may be too strong for Essendon although the side should never be discounted.

By Simon Chiarelli

What the Coaches Said...

David Winton

Coach, Essendon Royals

Well after a couple of bad results were obviously very keen to get back on track and put in a good performance. Three points are imperative and we must get a win. The finals series is entertaining, but it's also very close down the bottom as well. The last two games have dragged us into that, just when it looked like we were getting away from it.

Training this week has been very positive and we've got it in mind to show we're a better team than what's been shown the last couple of weeks.

Con Pappas

Coach, Heidelberg Utd

We're expecting another difficult game away from home. Essendon are a hard team to play against and we need to get a result. I'd imagine every game is a cup final for them, as is for us at this time of year. We'll be looking to go out there and play to our strengths. We've got Tricarico and Yusef back, which will obviously alleviate some of our selection headaches. We're at that stage where we need to get good results for ourselves to consolidate our place in the top six and not rely on anyone else to do the work for us.

NICHOLS BAGS HAT-TRICK IN 5-0 WIN

Division One moves into the final stretch with Round 18 just passed and it all started Friday night when the Springvale White Eagles consolidated their second spot on the ladder with a 3-1 victory over Northcote City who remains second bottom. It was the Papadopolous show with Nikolaos Papadopolous scoring a hat-trick for the White Eagles while George Papadopolous scored the goal for Northcote.

The other Friday night game saw North Geelong visit the Anderson Reserve and share the spoils in a two all draw. The result leaves the North Geelong side all but clinging to hope of promotion but more then likely set to finish just short, while Port Melbourne stays mid table. Goals for the home side Port Melbourne came from Rosario Cardillo And Ozan Kara while Geelong's goals were from David Cervinski and Tony Saric.

Saturday saw Langwarrin welcome Brunswick city and give the disappointing side from the Dunstan reserve a right old 5-0 spanking. Caleb Nichols scored a hat trick while the other goals came from Ben Caffrey and David Breslin. This win puts Lagwarrin third and with an outside chance of challenging for the top two spots while Brunswick continues its slide, which sees them in danger of being in the relegation playoff picture.

Saturday night Saw the Dandenong Thunder

welcome North Coburg to George Andrews reserve and under the light recorded a 1-1 draw. A result that leaves North coburg safely mid table and keeps the Thunder in the relegation playoff mix. Steven Mancevski scored for Coburg whilst Masumi Nishida scored for the home side

Sunday's games saw the ladder topping Western Suburbs cement their one game break on top with a two goals to one victory away at the Bentleigh Greens. Tony Neceski and Leandro Rizzo scored for Suburbs whilst Ben Coggar scored for the Greens. The Greens sit third bottom and firmly in the relegation/playoff scenario.

The final game killed St Albans' hopes of promotion as they traveled to Altona east and shared the points. Ilija Rados scored for St Albans and Nick Tsaltas for the Altona East side, which is deep in the relegation scrap.

NINE GOAL THRILLER!!

Knox City 5 Southern Stars 4
(Half time 1-1)

Where do you start to describe this thriller at Egan Lee Reserve on Saturday?

Despite being the better side all day, Knox City contrived to let the Southern Stars back into the game on a number of occasions before holding on for a 5-4 victory.

The tempo of the game was set right from the start as Knox took the game right up to the joint league leaders. In the first two minutes crosses from Spina and Nasser skidded across the Stars goalmouth without anyone getting a touch.

Five minutes in and Knox took the lead as a good movement was finished off in emphatic style by Vernon.

The home side should have taken a commanding lead as they constantly pushed forward against a defence lacking the leadership of Caliskan. Under .7 Australian international, Leigh Broxham, in his first senior game for Knox, was having a profound effect on the middle of the park with his control and distribution.

Ziada, Vernon and Nasser all missed golden opportunities to increase Knox's lead in the first half. Such was their dominance that it was 20 minutes before Southern Stars had a shot on target. Ziada missed a close range header, Vernon missed the ball completely five metres out and Nasser made a great run through the heart of the defence, rounded Pajic in the Stars goal, only to hit the side netting.

At the other end Akdogan had the ball in the net after 21 minutes but he was clearly offside. Six minutes later Knox paid for its p. offside when Doganay latched on to a mishit shot to drive the ball across Skinner into the net.

If the first half was entertaining it was nothing to the second period.

After 49 minutes, Edgar picked up a loose ball in the area and drove the ball unerringly past Pajic.

Ten minutes later, Doganay got his second and Stars second equaliser when he rose brilliantly at the far post to power a header past Skinner.

Four minutes later and Knox took the lead again. Nasser latched on to a poor clearance and played a square ball to Vernon who cleverly moved the ball on to Swaine whose drive gave Pajic no chance.

It was end to end stuff as Spina and Swaine combined well only for the ball to be cleared off the line and then at the other end Akdogan and Driver both went close for the visitors.

After 73 minutes, it looked as though Knox had made the game safe when Edgar drove forward, released Ziada whose cross was converted from close range by Vernon.

Far from it as within the next minute an indirect free kick in the Knox penalty area was touched to Pizzuruso, who made no mistake with a fierce shot.

Only a minute later and Edgar grabbed his second with a header to restore the two-goal advantage at 5-3. Three goals in two minutes and it wasn't over yet.

Southern Stars then hit the woodwork twice in a minute as they looked to get back into the match. They were given a lifeline in the 85th minute when a harmless looking through ball created a mix up between Humphreys and Skinner, leaving Aydogan a simple tap in to set up a furious finish.

After the hectic first 85 minutes, there were few chances created in the last five as Knox saw out time for a welcome victory, which helped to create a log-jam at the top of the table.

Knox City: Skinner, Humphreys, Swami, Orlando, Edgar, Broxham, Ziada, Swaine, Vernon, Spina, Nasser. Subs not used: O'Connor, Becirovic, Hughes, Marshall.

Southern Stars: Pajic, Akdogan, Damiano (79th), Castel, Bot, Mucay (Kirk (63rd), Pizzuruso, Arnauts, Doganay, Driver, Aydogan. Subs not used: Baran, Caliskan, Laverdure.

GROOM'S HAT-TRICK MAKES VALLEY THE BRIDE

Eastern Lions 3 Diamond Valley 0

Eastern Lions kept its hopes of survival in Division 2 S/E alive with a comfortable 3-0 win over Diamond Valley.

Valley went into the game knowing they had to win to keep its hopes of a top two spot alive. However after Saturday's display they can only be described as the Great Pretenders of Division Two.

Valley began brightly enough and Shaun Wilhelm broke clear in the fifth min. but a bad bounce of the ball spoiled his scoring attempt. Valley's efforts were concentrated down the right with Kevin Unwin and Tony Guiliano, but the Lions' defence was watertight. Carlo Mason, Matt Verniers and James Wild took care of anything that Valley came up with.

After 12 mins. Chad Bullock took a long throw from the right, the ball was headed across goal to find Simon Groom at the far post and Lions were 1 up.

Valley's reply was a shot from Wilhelm which hit the side netting, but overall Valley looked sluggish in comparison with the Lions. Just after the half hour mark, a long ball played out of the Lions' defence beat everyone but Groom who gathered it and put the home side 2 up. Safa Murat came on for Unwin in an effort to give Valley more punch up front, but Mason marshalled his troops well and Groom, Bullock and Eric Huynh had the visitors chasing shadows at the other end.

Wilhelm clashed with Lions' goalie Con Pavlou soon after the break and sparked a wild melee, surprisingly no cards were seen and the game resumed. Adam Raynes headed a Gun...ano cross just over and Mark Court fired Valley's first direct shot at goal but Pavlou was well positioned to save.

Valley plugged away but had no answer to the close marking of the home defence and 9mins from time Valley's backline failed to clear a harmless ball into the middle and Groom completed his hat-trick to send the Valley boys home to think again!

Although beaten 4-2 Valley's reserves showed more resolve than their senior colleagues and were by no means disgraced. David Newell and David Agostinelli scored.

Next week is catch-up week and Valley will be home to Waverley Wanderers.

KINGS CRUISE OVER OLD XAVS

Berwick Kings 3 Old Xaverians 0

Berwick Kings have cruised to an easy 3-0 win over Old Xaverians.

The game was played on a dry, sunny day - perfect for Berwick's quick-footed style of play. Old Xaverians matched them for passing skills but did not look like scoring. Berwick was dominant all around the ground with Zdravko Kecojevic, Ognjen Jovanovic and even Dragan Stojilovic on his wrong wing, looking dangerous. Even so there seemed to be something missing with Berwick lacking a spark or moments of individual brilliance.

In the 24th minute of the match Berwick got the breakthrough. Stojilovic started the play when he chipped a long ball up and in front of Ljubisa Medic. The Old Xaverian goalkeeper waited for the ball to come to him after the bounce but Medic attacked and headed the ball over the keeper for a goal.

Ten minutes later Berwick scored again through an obviously well-rehearsed set play. Mark Litkowski put in a long throw to Kecojevic at the front post. He headed the ball back to Krsto Stancic who hit a first time shot in for a goal to make the score 2-0.

Berwick's defence were dominant at the first half as well. The team of Deny Jutor, Pero Traklovic and Dragan Marjanac produced many strong clearances both in the air and on the ground. Berwick players were being allowed a lot of time and space which was shown when they got their third goal in the 38th minute. Kecojevic put the ball out in front of Medic who cut the ball back past the keeper into goal.

There was to be no Old Xaverians comeback in the second half as Berwick continued to dominate possession. Medic continued to be lively as he strove for a hat-trick but all of his shots were either saved or just missed the target. Kecojevic also had a couple of chances that he could not convert.

This was the first in nine matches that Berwick had lasted a whole match without any player receiving a card. That may reflect the ease in which they were able to come away from this game with a win.

Next week will be a much tougher ask when Berwick take on Lyndale United. It is a top of the table clash that will have a massive hearing on which team is crowned champion at the end of the season.

Vukovar's 90 Game Winning Streak Broken

St. Albans Vukovar's 90 game unbeaten run in the Victorian Amateur Premier League (Morning) competition finally came to an end last Sunday morning at the hands of Churchill Reserve co-tenants and fierce rivals HNK Mostar. In recent years, St. Albans Vukovar have won a plethora of titles and trophies along the way, but their biggest achievement was the setting of a new Australian record in league matches, which now finally stands at 90.

Some people are calling Mostar's win over their fellow rivals Vukovar "As the biggest sports upset since Australia 2 won the Americas cup," as Mostar's form in the league has been indifferent to say the least. The mid-table side suffered a 4-1 loss at home to the bottom of the table Keilor Wolves the previous week, before shocking the football world with their hard fought 2-1 win over the reigning champs, Vukovar.

Mostar drew first blood mid way thru the first half after a failed clearance by the Vukovar defense from an ensuing corner resulted in an own goal. Mostar struck again just before the hour mark, as a trade mark free kick by Mostar's 'Gaffer' Branko Bacak (ex Saints & Suburbs striker) sizzled passed Vukovar's Keeper, Anthony Sakic, to give the underdogs a 2-0 lead.

Mostar's second goal sparked the champions, as Vukovar's player coach Goran Trogalic (ex Bulleen & Saints midfielder) responded with a four pronged attack. Bacak sensed the shift in momentum and made the necessary adjustments his back line. However, Vukovar was rewarded for their bravery with 15 minutes left to play, when young gun Stipe Mrso eloquently pegged one back for Vukovar.

Vukovar had the scent of blood, but Mostar's sweeper Damir Movric (ex Saints Midfielder) held firm, marshalling his backline like "Rommel." Unlike previous occasions between the two, the Moustarian's this time held out for an historic win.

Mostarian stalwart Bruno Hrstic took out the Ante Brkljacic medal, for his best on ground performance.

Mostars President Branko Duzel said after the game "That he had experienced nothing sweeter in his short term at the club" as the boys parted hard well into the early hours of Monday morning. He also praised the achievement of Vukovar's unbeaten streak and said "That it won't be broken in our lifetimes", as well as praising the performance of new recruit, Marko Vukovic.

By Bruno Zovko

Goal! Weekly would like to apologise to our readers for the technical difficulties on this article last week, which only left half the article of Vukovar's historic record.

2006/2007 A-League Pre-Season Cup

Adelaide Remains Unbeaten

1 Adelaide Utd

0 NZ Knights

The Newcastle Jets and Queensland Roar have Adelaide United has continued its good form with a 1-0 Hyundai A-League Pre-Season Cup victory over the New Zealand Knights at Hindmarsh Stadium.

A Carl Veart penalty saw United take the lead in the 19th minute and from that point they were never seriously challenged.

The strong crowd of 12,006 had its first taste of football this season and got right behind the South Australian side, hopeful the result would earn their team a place in a semi-final.

With teams able to secure bonus points during Round Four, United will have to wait on the completion of other games to know if it has made the final four.

They have eight points after two wins and two draws to currently sit atop of Group A. Central Coast has seven points, while Perth has two points and Melbourne one. Veart earned his penalty with a burst of pace into the 18-metre box. Chasing down a long pass, the veteran proved too quick for two Knights defenders and his surge on goal was only stopped by a tackle by keeper, Ivan Necevski.

Veart struck the penalty low and hard into the right corner of the net leaving Necevski to sweat on a yellow card he received for the duo's collision.

The goal sparked United into action and they controlled the remainder of the first half. They had their opposition under continual pressure by taking long-distance shots and regularly finding holes in New Zealand's defence.

The Knights did go close to equalising in the 42nd minute. Sean Devine headed a long floating Daniel Rodrigues cross but was denied a goal by goalkeeper Daniel Beltrame.

The sting went out of the contest in the second half with New Zealand unable to sustain enough attacking pressure on their opponent.

The experienced Adelaide duo of Richie Alagich and Ross Aloisi were rested midway through the half. Aloisi's replacement Adam Van Dommelle had a chance to score the home side's second goal late in the match but put the ball well over the crossbar.

United coach John Kosmina said he was disappointed his players didn't make the most of their opportunities but was pleased the team was able to control most of the contest.

"I think the second half of the first half was fantastic, the way we moved the ball, it was really good, we played some really nice football," he said.

"We had the Knights on the back foot, even in the second half."

"As much as it (the second half) was a bit duller... we had them more concerned about what we were doing than what they can do."

New Zealand Knights coach Paul Nevin said his side also rued missed shots on goal, especially during the opening minutes when the game was up for grabs.

"I thought if we had put one of those away it could've turned the game a little bit but it didn't and Adelaide started to get into the game," he said.

"I felt we didn't create as many chances in the second half and I felt Adelaide possibly killed the game in the last 15 minutes, they are very experienced and very good at doing that."

Mariners hold Roar

0 QLD Roar

0 CC Mariners

Central Coast Mariners have reclaimed Group A top spot from Adelaide United following a 0-0 draw against Queensland Roar in the Hyundai A-League Pre-Season Cup in Toowoomba.

In front of 4571 fans at the Clive Burghoffer Stadium, Ante Milcic had a handful of decent chances to break the deadlock before departing at half-time.

His best opportunity arrived on the stroke of the interval when Mariners captain Noel Spencer cleared off the line with Soccerro call-up Danny Vukovic stranded. With 10 minutes to go, Damien Brown again cleared off the goal-line from Roar defender Remo Buess after Vukovic had dropped a corner into his Swiss defender's path. Matt McKay then forced Vukovic into a fingertip save to preserve the Central Coast's seven-match unbeaten run in the Pre-Season Cup.

Following Newcastle and New Zealand's losses earlier in the round, the Roar started the day knowing a win would guarantee a place in the semi-finals.

The Mariners also knew a third win of the pre-season tournament or a draw would confirm a semi-final berth.

But goalscoring chances were at a premium despite the additional points available in the bonus round.

Milcic wasted the first of his five first-half chances within 16 seconds of kick-off when he opted not to shoot after being put clean through by McKay.

The former Jets striker then forced Vukovic into the match's first save after connecting with Massimo Murodca's deep cross before, midway through the half, stylishly holding off Central Coast defender Alex Wilkinson before turning and planting a shot wide.

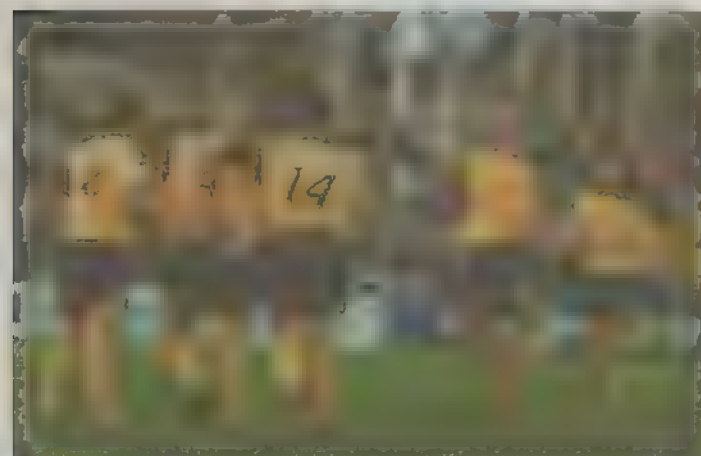

But the battle continued in midfield with Spencer's blazed shot from long distance the closest the Mariners came to troubling Roar goalkeeper Tom Willis.

Then, in injury time, neat interplay between Hyuk-Su Seo and Andrew Packer resulted in Milcic rounding Vukovic but his goalbound effort was cleared off the line by a superb last-ditch clearance from the irrepressible Spencer.

Even though Queensland was aware a goalless draw would be insufficient to seal a top two finish, coach Miron Bleiberg replaced Milcic with youngster Tim Smits at the break as the Roar searched for its first win of the new season.

But the change didn't alter the spectacle with the second-half's better efforts falling to Stewart Petrie and Andre Gumprecht for the Mariners before Buess scrambled a shot after Vukovic had dropped Packer's corner, but Brown was in the right place to clear. The Mariners goalkeeper then made amends moments later with a flying stop from McKay's blast from outside the box before Willis foiled Mariners substitute James Holland in injury time.

Sydney Accounts for Glory

3 Sydney FC

0 Perth Glory

Alex Brosque has scored two goals to help Sydney FC to a 3-0 victory over Perth Glory in their Hyundai A-League Pre Season Cup match at Wollongong's WIN Stadium on Sunday afternoon.

Brosque scored back-to-back goals in the 26th and 27th minutes as Sydney took control of the match in cold but fine conditions.

The win left Sydney on top of the ladder at the end of the bonus round and set up a semi-final showdown with Adelaide next Friday night at the same venue.

Sydney was without star Dwight Yorke, who was initially expected to make his return to this side in Wollongong but was ruled out earlier in the week after sustaining an injury during training.

Stan Lazaridis was a late withdrawal for the Glory and remained at the team hotel after falling ill during the day.

Sydney was immediately on the attack with Brosque and Sasho Petrovski close to scoring from separate shots after a corner from Steve Conca, but Glory goalkeeper Andrew Crews withstood the early assault.

Brosque again had a chance in the seventh minute but his powerful shot cruised over the crossbar, but it was another sign of Sydney's attacking potency.

Perth hit back two minutes later when David Micevski raced up the middle and chipped left to Naum Sekulovski, but his rocketing shot was just high, shaving the crossbar on its way over.

It was to be the only meaningful shot at goal the Glory had in the first half, with the visitors unable to penetrate the solid defensive line in Sydney's half.

The breakthrough came for Sydney in the 26th minute when Brosque hammered home a brilliant diagonal cross from David Carney.

Crews came out to challenge the former Queensland striker, but the ball trickled underneath him and rolled into the back of the net.

The 6634-strong crowd only had to wait another minute before Brosque got his second, this time wrong-footing Crews before powering a Petrovski cross into the back of the net to give Sydney a 2-0 lead.

The hosts continued to pepper the Glory goal in search of a third, and despite solid shots from Carney and Petrovski, plus a long-range rocket from Mark Miligan, the inaugural A-League champion went to the break with the score unchanged.

While Perth initially looked to have stepped up its intensity as it quickly went on the attack, it didn't take long for the home side to regain the ascendancy.

Petrovski headed a perfect cross from Alvin Ceccolli just wide in the 50th minute, before another close-range shot five minutes later that Crews held on to.

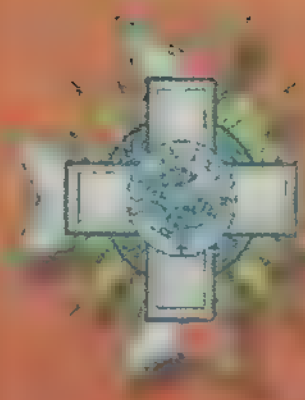

But the Glory goalkeeper wasn't so lucky saving Petrovski's third attempt, with Sydney taking a 3-0 advantage in the 57th minute with a superb header.

The Glory never gave up as they attempted to close the margin late in the second half, but were unable to get past Sydney goalkeeper Clint Bolton.

Sydney will host the final should it defeat Adelaide United in Wollongong on Friday night.

Melbourne Lives Up To Its Name in Tamworth

A late goal to Daniel Allsopp has given the Melbourne Victory a hard-earned 3-2 win over the Newcastle Jets in their Hyundai A-League Pre-Season Cup clash at Tamworth's Scully Park on Saturday night.

Allsopp finished off a perfect pass from midfielder Vince Lia to slot the winner in the 84th minute, but it wasn't enough to keep Melbourne in the competition - the visitors needing four goals for a mathematical shot at the Cup.

Under the bonus points system for this round, Victory, courtesy of its three goals, secured two bonus points, while Newcastle picked up one point for scoring two goals.

Both teams were without a number of key players, with Melbourne's Brazilian import Fred suffering a carked thigh in training during the week, the side also without Adrian Caceres (calf) and Michael Ferrante (thigh). With the Jets squad ravaged by injuries and missing players, Matthew Thompson was forced to take the field despite being ill leading up to the match.

Newcastle had the better start and wasted no time piling the pressure on in Melbourne's half, but it wasn't until the 12th minute that it had its first shot at goal, with Vaughan Coveny firing wide.

The Victory hit back shortly after with Simon Storey stepping past two Jets defenders to rocket a shot at goal, only to watch it shave the top of the crossbar in the 14th minute.

To the delight of the 3,100-strong crowd, the Jets were first on the board when right back Jade North fired home a brilliant pass from Thompson past Melbourne goalkeeper Michael Theoklitos in the 17th minute.

The visitors refused to be deflated by the goal and stepped up the intensity as they searched for the equaliser, with Storey and Roddy Vargas each taking shots at goal in quick succession.

Kristian Sarkies had the perfect opportunity to even the score when one on one with young Jets goalkeeper Ben Kennedy, but the midfielder mistimed his shot and it sailed well over the goal.

Newcastle looked set to head to the break with the lead before Archie Thompson received an unselfish pass from Allopp and made no mistake of powering home the equaliser just before the break.

The Victory stepped up after the break and were dominating the weakened Jets outfit, and it was skipper Kevin Muscat who put his side ahead when he converted a penalty after Andrew Durante handled the ball in the box in the 62nd minute.

But Newcastle again levelled the scores eight minutes later when it was also given a penalty, and Nick Carle made no mistake of converting for a 2-2 scoreline. Melbourne was dealt a blow in the 75th minute when Thompson left the field with an apparent injury, but it had little impact as Allsopp allowed Melbourne to sneak home with his late goal.

One on One With Geoffrey Claeys

Q. You've been in Australia for almost a year now. Have you enjoyed your time here?

A. Yes, it's been really good thank you. It's one of the best countries in the world to live in, so in a sense, it hasn't been that hard to adapt to at all. Everything has gone really smoothly.

Q. That's the lifestyle, but what about the football?

A. From my point of view the football hasn't been very good at the moment. I've been dropped several times already and as a footballer that is always annoying. But, as a professional you have to accept it. It's a part of football, it's a part of life and the only thing I can do is work hard, and when the coach needs me again, I'll be there.

Q. As far as the rest of the team goes, in your opinion, how has the pre-season preparation been going for the Victory?

A. We've played a lot of games against Vodafone Cup teams, and I suppose we did alright, mind you it was more for conditioning than anything else. We've also had the A-League Pre-season Cup, which wasn't as smooth as we would have hoped. But, we'll try and take as many positives as we can to turn things around and get us ready for the real competition, which starts shortly. I hope when it comes to the point we should be there and we're aiming for the 25th of August, when the serious stuff begins.

Q. What can Melbourne Victory fans expect from the team this year around?

A. I think if we want to do something for the members then we have to get into the Finals. We owe it to ourselves and to the members to make up for the unsatisfactory position of last year.

Q. A lot of talk about the Brazilian recruits. How are they holding up?

A. They're good boys and you can see they can play. They've got the skill and the right mentality, but they also have to prove themselves to the tough, physical nature of the Australian style. The first game is going to be very important...we've got Adelaide United in our first match of the season, who we've so far always struggled a little bit against, but that's when they'll have to stand up and show the fans what they're made of.

Q. Which teams will be victory's biggest threat to Victory this season?

A. I think we don't have to look or worry about any other team except ourselves. We just have to go out there and do better than last year. I'm very very sure of that. Our training is much different than last year, it's far better, and we're more sharper. I hope all the effort we've been putting in the training will come out in the ninety minutes of a match.

Q. How is the training different this year?

A. We've been training a lot harder and that's it. We want to be the fastest team, the quickest team, we want to be the sharpest team in the league. When you want that you have to put a lot more effort into ourselves and we have a good physical coach in Adam Basle, who is preparing us for what will hopefully be a good year.

Q. Personally, what are your ambitions for this year?

A. Right now, for me, it's to get back into the team.

Q. What's the obstacle keeping you on the outer at the moment? Is it competition, form, the coach's opinion?

A. Of course it's competition. But, I've been dropped and Ernie Merrick gave me an honest explanation. He said that he wants to give young Australians a go...ones that are quicker, sharper and faster than myself. Okay, it's hard to accept, but you have to accept it and move. Although you want the team to do well, I have to rely on injuries or suspensions to get my chance. When I get my chance I just have to make sure I'm ready to grab it.

Q. Are you quite prepared to stick it out, or are you one of those players who would be happy to move on?

A. I love Melbourne and the club and I'm happy to stay and finish my contract. Maybe if I can get a run

Clay's future at Victory is uncertain but the former Belgian international is still working hard to get back into the squad this year and do well I might be lucky enough to be offered a new deal.

Q. Do you feel the pressure this year?

A. Everybody is under pressure, but that's football all over the world. It's normal in this game and it's at every club. I'm under pressure, Ernie is under pressure, the Brazilians are under pressure. This business is all about results, results, results and we are under pressure to produce. We have to see who will stand up and who is capable of performing well under pressure. But, I have a good feeling about it.

Q. What were your thoughts on the world cup?

A. I was glad that Italy won because we had a sweep at the club and I won $350!! Good stuff eh!!

Thanks for spending time with Goal! Weekly. We wish you all the very best for Season 2006/07

Yorke's Return Still on Ice

Dwight Yorke's return for Sydney FC has been delayed at least another week after he was ruled out of Sunday's clash with the Glory with a groin strain.

Yorke underwent an MRI scan on Friday which revealed a slight strain to his left groin, and he will undergo treatment this week before resuming training. The injury also means Yorke will miss Trinidad and Tobago's friendly with Japan on Wednesday.

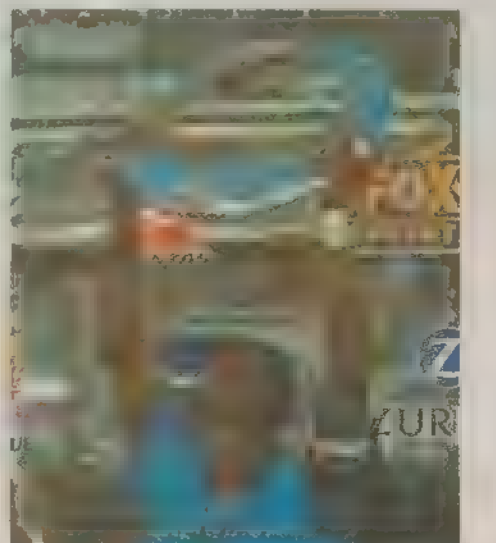

"From our point of view the results of the preliminary scan are positive but we want to make sure that it is right before he gets back into training," Sydney coach Terry Butcher said.

Yorke took a well-earned break following the World Cup and is yet to play for the inaugural Hyundai A-League premiers so far this season.

The Sydney captain was frustrated not to be making his long-awaited return at Win Stadium this weekend.

"I'm disappointed. I came back from the World Cup and worked very hard to get fit and I was really starting to feel sharp again. I was looking forward to getting out on the pitch but this has set me back a little," Yorke said.

"I will now make sure I get things right because the start of the A-League is only three weeks away."

BOO'S WORLD

It's time for Boo's Annual Time Machine Trip, this week we go back to 1964 via the 1964 Victorian Soccer Yearbook.

No nude girls on page 3, just an article, THIS YEAR 1964. The highlight is the opening line of the final paragraph. "In the year 1964 there will be no room for petty feuds and needless arguments" That's almost as good as Bob Hawke's "no child will be living in poverty" quote

Page 13 contained a story "Stanley Matthews - the Knight of the Round Ball!" It was compulsory for all football publications up to 1975 to include something on the great winger. The Sporting Globe advertised the COMPLETE COVERAGE OF SOCCER HERE AND ABROAD on page 16. R.I.P The Sporting Globe

Page 19 was an article on "Doc' The Man who put Soccer on the Map here". It was about Harry J Dockerty. We used to play for a Cup named after him, R.I.P. Dockerty Cup.

Moving to the clubs that made up the State League. Alexander and George Cross both played at Olympic Village. Hakoah and South Melbourne Hellen occupied Middle Park. J.U.S.T. was based at Schindler Reserve. Juventus was at Elsternwick Park in the days before they were relegated to Serie B. Melbourne Hungaria also played there. Lions played at Montgomery Park in Essendon. Polonia played at the Maribyrnong Speedway. Slavia were from Anderson Oval, Port Melbourne. Treestina played at Campbell Reserve, Moreland and Wilhelmina had Jubilee Park in Rungwood. Not many of those grounds still exist, and the Village and Jubilee Park are in some sort of competition as to which is the most run-down ground from that era.

Page 42 was the "New Division Set-up" article. "The old North and South divisions of 1963 have been abolished" it explained. Eventually they would come back, with West added to North, and East added to South.

Austria were in the First Division. As were Box Hill, who played at Wembley (Park). Sandringham, Brighton and Collingwood, Dandenong City, Coburg United and Moreland were also in this league.

From that First Division Croatia played at Tracey's Speedway in Maribyrnong. Makedonia played

A beachside shot of Jimmy Pyrgolios of Hellas (left), with Vero Mladenovic, who gave great service to Footscray JUST and later to Fitzroy alexander in the 1960s at Collier Street Reserve in Preston, and Oakleigh were at Lord's Reserve in Carnegie. Richmond were at Madden Grove in Burnley. Sunshine City, who would eventually amalgamate with George Cross were at Gardens Reserve, Anderson Road, which is the same ground Sunshine Georgies now use but call Chaplin Reserve, after the silent movie comedian

Flinders Naval Depot, wearing navy and white shirts (what else?) were in the Second Division. Sadly they would disband before the Village People would release "In The Navy", depriving them of the opportunity to have the most apt club song in Victorian football history. R.I.P Flinders Naval Depot.

The season started in March and finished in September. There were no finals, just the aforementioned Dockerty Cup. J.U.S.T. had taken out the 1963 title, by just two points from Polonia. They did just enough, scoring sixty goals. And I've just about worn out the whole just thing. Just about

TWO NEW BOOKS are mentioned on page 121. "A Century of Soccer" and "Soccer - The British Way". I guess you can tell which one Ernie Merrick has in his possession.

There was also a Federation Cup, Harry Armstrong Cup and the Ampol Cup in those days. We used to have so many Cups but now the Cup cupboard is bare. There was even an Australia Cup, Slavia defeating Polonia 3-2 in an all-Melbourne final replay, Sydney's Prague and Adelaide's Juventus the beaten semi-finalists.

So much and so little has changed at the same time. Just.

"Dad, dad!" cried Philip, as he arrived home one evening. "I think I've been selected for the school football team."

"That's good," said his father. "But why do you only think you've been selected? Aren't you sure? What position are you playing?"

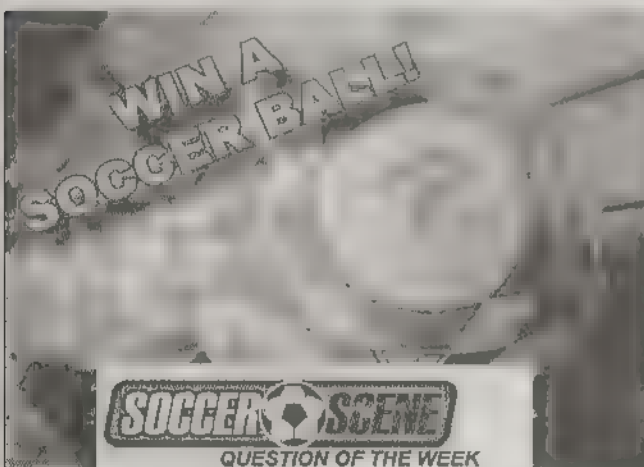

"Well," replied Philip, "it's not been announced officially, but I overheard the football coach tell my teacher that if I was in the team I'd be a great drawback."

WOMEN'S PREMIER LEAGUE Round 20

SANDY STILL IN WITH A CHANCE

No change in the top five as the race for the finals continues in the Vodafone WPL, as all five clubs emerged victorious from Round 20. Sandringham kept its hopes of making the finals alive with a victory, while defeat for Bendigo could have ended its chances of featuring in September action.

Box Hill Inter took on Brimbank on Friday night in a game that was always likely to prove a mismatch, given the two sides' positions at opposing ends of the table. Inter had opened up a two-goal lead by half time, but it really asserted its authority in the second half, scoring a further seven times without reply to record a comfortable win. However, Ashburton's victory later in the weekend means that Inter has to be content to remain in second position for the moment, still a point adrift of the league leader.

Currently in sixth place, and two points outside the top five, all Sandringham can do is keep winning and hope that those above it falter. It did just that on Saturday at Bob Jane Stadium, at the expense of home side, South Melbourne. The result hung in the balance at half time, with Sandringham narrowly ahead by two goals to one, but the visitor proved much the stronger in the second half to take all three points with a 6-1 victory. The result ensures Sandringham holds on to fifth place on the ladder. For South, the defeat is another blow to its hopes of avoiding relegation, and it remains in the drop zone, a point behind Eltham North.

Cranbourne produced its second biggest win of the season in a timely manner to help shore up its hold on fourth place, with a six goal defeat of Preston Lions. Three goals in each half secured the points for the Comets, with Preston unable to find the net in reply. Cranbourne has three matches to go, facing bottom side Brimbank, and fellow finals aspirants Keilor and Sandringham, leaving it very much in charge of its own destiny with regards to making the finals. Preston remains ninth on the ladder, and is unable to finish any higher.

Keilor Park continues to occupy the position above Sandringham, maintaining its two point advantage over its finals rival courtesy of its tenth victory of the season. It saw off Eastern Lions by five goals to one to move onto 34 points, still three adrift of Cranbourne above it, but crucially with two games in hand over Sandringham below it. It was a second successive heavy home defeat for Eastern Lions, leaving it ninth on the ladder.

Heidelberg United recorded a seven-goal haul for the second time in as many weeks, while Eltham North was on the receiving end of seven goals for a second consecutive week when the two sides met at Darebin International Sports Centre on Sunday. It was a comparatively quiet first half, with United scoring twice, but the floodgates opened after the interval, as Heidelberg added a further five, with Eltham managing one in reply. Heidelberg continues to occupy third position on the ladder, three points behind Inter, while Eltham remains a point above the relegation zone in tenth.

Ashburton hung on to top spot on the ladder and put a significant dent in Bendigo's chances of featuring in the finals with a 3-1 victory over the Vipers at Ashburton Park on Sunday. The triumph, Ashburton's seventeenth of a strong season, keeps it one point ahead of Box Hill, but having played a game more. The defeat could have more far reaching consequences for Bendigo, as it leaves it a full three points outside of the top five, with tricky matches against Heidelberg and Keilor still to play. Bendigo can still make the finals, but must really hope that some of the teams around it now slip up as well.

Nest weekend is a scheduled catch up round for the WPL, but the number of postponed games means that it features almost a full fixture of matches. The action begins on Thursday evening when Eltham North takes on Sandringham at DISC, with Eltham backing up to play at Sunday as well, when it faces Eastern Lions at Gardiners Creek Reserve. Also on Sunday, Keilor Park plays Bendigo Vipers at Keilor Park Reserve and a big match at the top of the ladder, featuring Heidelberg United and Box Hill Inter at DISC.

Zlatan Threatens To Sue

TURIN, Aug 4- Zlatan Ibrahimovic's desire to leave Juventus is so strong that his agent has not ruled out the possibility of legal proceedings.

"It is evident that Zlatan wants to leave Juventus and I hope the club takes note of this," said agent Mino Raiola.

"Our stance is clear and we are looking for a way out with the club's blessing, but we are ready to consider legal action if that is not the case."

With Juve stuck in Serie B, Raiola has done little to deny the interest from both the blue and red halves of Milan by declaring that his client does not wish to leave Italy.

"Ibra is not tired of Italy and would like to achieve a bit more here."

Juve manager Didier Deschamps has already declared that the Swede will play in a pre-season friendly this Friday and is still taking the approach that there will be no more sales from the Bianconeri.

"It will be his first game for the new Juventus," explained Deschamps.

"His future? His agent can say what he wants, I have no time to waste."

Ribery looking to transfer

MARSEILLE, Aug 5 Marseille and France winger Franck Ribery has confirmed his wishes to leave the Ligue 1 side.

"I wish to leave because I want to win other things," admitted Ribery.

"I want to play in the Champions League. I am only 23 and I want to move on to other things."

"Marseille's directors know where I want to go. My choice is made and I will not turn back."

Club President Pape Diouf has immediately hit out at the comments and reaffirmed his club's position.

"We disapprove totally with the method used by Franck Ribery this evening."

"The improved contract he signed in March ties him to Marseille."

"Each camp must assume its share of responsibility. He won't be able to sign for another club without our accord."

Ribery has been linked with moves to Lyon, Arsenal and Manchester United, with Marseille's Ligue 1 rivals favourite for his signature.

Rooney Risks A Ban

AMSTERDAM, Aug 5- England 'Bad Boy' Wayne Rooney, playing for his club Manchester United, could miss the first three matches of the English Premier League after he was sent off on Friday night against FC Porto in Amsterdam.

Rooney's fate depends on whether Dutch referee Ruud Boonen includes the incident in his match report and the Dutch Football Association then forwards it onto the English Football Association.

Rooney has not had the best of times against Portuguese opposition of late. He received a much publicised red card in the World Cup quarter final encounter against Portugal. The 20-year-old was shown a red card on Friday in the 42nd minute in the first match of the LG Amsterdam Tournament for a challenge on defender Pepe Ferreira.

In a statement after the match Rooney said he thought that the referee was going to give a free kick and not a red card. He had felt that Ferreira had backed in to him. Television evidence of the incident tends to suggest that the Manchester United forward may have been hard done by.

Not short of anything to say, United's manager Sir Alex Ferguson said that he thought that the referee had reacted in such a way because his reputation has preceded him. He added that Ferreira had made a meal of the incident, something that has now become endemic in the game.

If Rooney gets the three-match ban, he would miss league games against Fulham, Charlton and Watford. Paul Scholes was also dismissed from the match after getting a second yellow card in the 68th and would also face the same ban should Boonen include the incident in the match report.

Why Van Nistelrooy Had To Go

MANCHESTER, Aug 4- Manchester United boss Sir Alex Ferguson has explained why prolific front man Ruud van Nistelrooy had to leave Old Trafford.

Despite scoring 150 goals in 219 appearances for United, van Nistelrooy was sold to Real Madrid, signing a three-year contract with the Spanish giants last Friday.

The move came to pass after van Nistelrooy was dropped for the Carling Cup final last February and then struggled to regain his first-team place, leading the Dutchman, so Ferguson, to react negatively.

"It's how they react and adapt to being left out that counts," Ferguson said.

"Ruud was different in that way and so that's what happened."

The break in the relationship and the move to sell the 30-year-old van Nistelrooy came hard to Ferguson.

"The difficulty with footballers today is the satisfaction you have to give them in terms of picking the team," he said.

"So every time you pick a team there are two or three players you're hesitant about telling they are not playing."

"Maybe they are big players or have been a big player for you in the past. Or maybe you have a special relationship with them."

"You hope they will agree with reasons for leaving them out but sometimes a player doesn't and I can understand that."

Toni Wants To Leave

FLORENCE, Aug 4- The words, 'I want to leave,' words that every Fiorentina fan had been dreading to hear, have been reiterated by star striker Luca Toni.

Although not making any direct comment in such exact wording, it does not take a genius to realise that the Tuscan striker is keen to start the season afresh in new surroundings.

The 29-year-old World Cup winner has spoken of his desire to challenge for a league crown and also the UEFA Champions League, and has admitted that there is no such possibility in doing so by staying with La Viola.

"I want to make the most of the opportunities I am given and win something big," said Toni.

"I have had interest not only from Inter, but also from Spain and England."

"I want to win the league title and Champions League, but if I stay here for the next three to four years, I won't be able to."

When asked if he had confronted club owner Diego Della Valle over his wishes, the striker revealed that the chairman had not met with him.

"Della Valle doesn't want to hear from me, but why? He doesn't want to meet me and it saddens me."

"I am not going to escape and, if they demand that I stay, I will try to give it my best for the team, but it is obvious that in the circumstances, I cannot have a good relationship with the club."

Internacional Book Finals Spot

PORTO ALEGRE, Aug 4- Brazilian side Internacional booked their spot in the 2006 Copa Libertadores final after beating Libertad of Paraguay 2-0 on the night and on aggregate.

The first leg lacked a goal, but Internacional nearly pulled one off in the fourth minute as Fernandão centered from the right to strike partner Rafael Sóbis, but goalkeeper Horacio Gonzalez was equal to the task and pushed it away.

After that, the match settled into a ball possession game with very few scoring opportunities, less than the teams managed to produce in the scoreless first leg of play.

There was an entertaining moment in the 33rd minute as Internacional sparked a beautiful, flowing move up the middle with Fabinho gliding the ball forward into the area, but Gonzalez saved before Fernandão could get there.

The first half came to a close with Libertad pressing in the Internacional area, but nothing came of the opportunity and the players were forced to regroup at the break.

After the interval, Internacional came out with enormous pressure, but Libertad enjoyed a spell of about five minutes of constant pressure on the Internacional goal, but that came to an abrupt end in the 63rd minute.

Seemingly from out of nowhere, Internacional midfielder Alex let loose a shot from over 30 yards out that bounced once hard, and after Gonzalez mis-judged it, the ball went inside the left post for the breakthrough.

The Brazilians added to that lead five minutes later when Fernandão, too, struck from long distance and the ball again eluded Gonzalez who was screened away from the shot by a defender whom the ball deflected off of before going in.

The result sets up the second all-Brazilian final in two years in the Libertadores final, with the first leg set for next Wednesday.

Brazil Rife With Kidnappings

BRASILIA, Aug 4- Since November 2004 there have been six Brazilian football mothers who have been kidnapped and then released.

The sixth and latest mother to have been kidnapped and then released was Noemia de Carvalho Correa, mother of Santos defender Kleber. This happened on Wednesday. She was freed by the police in Sao Paulo two hours after her ordeal had begun.

The police in Sao Paulo freed Noemia when they became suspicious of two men in a car. A car short chase ensued. The men fled leaving the mother in the car where she had been tied up.

As yet no arrests have been made.

The first mother to have been kidnapped was the mother of Real Madrid's striker Robinho, who was in those days a Santos player.

Since then, Sevilla striker Luis Fabiano, former Sporting Lisbon defender Rogerio, Le Mans striker Grafite and Corinthians defender Marinho also had their mothers kidnapped and released.

The 26-year-old Kleber previously played for Swiss club FC Basel and Germany's Hannover.

He played for the Brazilian national team, and helped Corinthians win national titles in 1998 and 1999. He has scored a goal in 53 matches since signing with Santos.

'Sleeping giant' or 'an old man having a nap'? Aston Villa is again being talked up as a big club re-emerging. Massive support, player potential and rich rewards await a new successful manager. However, since the golden era of the early 80s, the closest Villa has got to a cup final recently is the ground staging the FA Cup semi-finals. They are a vast distance behind the top four of Chelsea, Man United, Arsenal and Liverpool and were lucky not have been relegated from the Premiership last year with only 42 points...

However, every Villa fan will be cheering for joy this weekend, as a new dawn is awaking. One of the most popular managers in Britain, Martin O'Neill, has just been unveiled as their new manager. O'Neill's popularity has seen him linked to almost every vacant managerial position in England including the England national team. He's even been linked to non-vacant positions such as replacing Sir Alex at Manchester United. O'Neill has players respect and has an excellent track record at club level. The former Northern Ireland midfielder has previously managed Wycombe, then Leicester City, who he guided to four successive top-ten Premiership finishes and three League Cup finals, of which he won two, and then Celtic, where he won the Scottish Premier League three times in five years and also took the club to a UEFA Cup final. While the Villa fans rejoice the rest of the football community are in shock, why would O'Neill wish to take the poisoned chalice of managing the Birmingham side? Previous managers; Brian Little, John Gregory, Graham Taylor and David O'Leary have all failed to revive the 'sleeping giant'. O'Leary parted company with the club a few weeks ago, allegedly by 'mutual consent' With the crowd declaring, "We're not fickle, we just don't like you!" and then the players finally turning on him with a vote of no confidence, he finally gave in and fled. Like all the previous managers, O'Leary had been initially seduced by the size and tradition of the club, but soon realised that the Chairman Doug Ellis was not only 'an old man having a nap', but also 'an very old ill man' incapable of taking a risk for the good of the club. His infamous statement that the only way he would ever be leaving the place was feet first, summed up his arrogance and insularity. Fortunately for Villa and for O'Neill, Ellis' days may finally be numbered, and he may actually reluctantly leave. Aston Villa has been up for sale estimated at £64m for almost a year and presently there are four consortia interested in purchasing the club and ousting Ellis. One of them will surely find the appropriate formula to persuade a man who owns 39% of the shares to step down and authorise a new dawn at the club off the pitch.

Whether it is pounds or dollars that fund the club, it desperately needs fresh blood. O'Neill is the first stage of the blood transfusion. Ellis has let Villa sleepwalk towards mediocrity for too long. While O'Neill's is not the kind of person who needs to wave a chequebook about too often, he understands the history of his predecessors and must know some inside information and surely must expect a takeover to go through within the next few weeks. Whereby funds of up to £20m will become available and a 'Willainous' giant may finally emerge.

OVERSEAS TRANSFER GOSSIP with George Egonidis

After Michael Carrick's big money move to Manchester was finally confirmed this week, it's no surprise that much of the speculation since then has centred on how Tottenham boss Martin Jol plans to spend his £18.6m windfall.

Keen to strengthen his defence - moreso since the pre-season injury to England international Ledley King - Jol is tracking Wigan's Pascal Chimbona. Chelsea's Wayne Bridge and Blackburn's Lucas Neill. Current Spurs outcasts Danny Murphy and Andy Reid have been offered as makeweights to secure Chimbona's arrival, but should that fall through Bolton is said to be keen on a £2m move for Murphy while Championship hopefuls Leeds would offer the same for Reid. Any deal for Bridge would depend on Chelsea securing Ashley Cole in the next few weeks, with Spurs reportedly willing to meet the Blues' £4m asking price.

Over at Newcastle, Glenn Roeder has been given £15m to spend on Real Madrid's Thomas Gravesen and Jonathan Woodgate, plus a new striker Michael Owen is said to have personally contacted the Mad Dane, who would cost the Magpies almost £3m, to extol the virtues of a move to Tyne-side.

Roeder's search for a striker, however, is proving more difficult. Newcastle is one of several clubs - Manchester United, Tottenham and Liverpool are the others - still keen on Feyenoord's £12m-rated World Cup flop Dirk Kuyt. Meanwhile, some websites were reporting Roeder's interest in Everton's James Beattie, and links to £7m-rated Empoli striker Francesco Tavano. But any interest in the Italian was quickly knocked on the head when Roeder commented, "I don't even know him."

Across the Channel, and Lyon star Mahamadou Diarra looks set to complete a move to Real Madrid in the next few days. Diarra, who was also a summer target for Sir Alex Ferguson, will cost Real up to £20m, and could be the first of two big name signings for the Spanish giants this week, with rumours linking Jose Antonio Reyes with a move back to his homeland continuing to gain momentum.

Diarra's switch could pave the way for Lyon to sign exciting French midfielder Franck Ribery. Ribery this week announced his desire to quit Marseille, and is expected to announce in the coming days a desire to join the current French champions.

And it wouldn't be a transfer gossip column without some news from Portsmouth, where Harry Redknapp's quest to rebuild seems like a lot of talk for not much action at the moment. Despite being linked with big name captures all summer long, you have to go back to June for Pompey's only serious piece of off-season business - the signing of Glen Johnson from Chelsea. So, for what it's worth, a £2m move for Manchester City's David James is on the cards soon, as is a move for Ghana captain Stephen Appiah. And Redknapp has apparently ended his chase for Blackburn defender Ryan Nelsen after Rovers rejected his final bid of £4.7m.

And in brief...

► Shaun Wright-Phillips can leave Chelsea for £12m - a £9m loss on the player signed last summer.

► Valencia has launched a £12m bid for Manchester United's want away winger Cristiano Ronaldo.

► Blackburn will sign Robert Huth if Middlesbrough continues to stall over Chelsea's asking price.

► Blackburn midfielder Brett Emerton looks set to join Middlesbrough.

► Wigan is set to try to sign Nathan Ellington from West Brom - a year after selling him for £3m.

► Chelsea has leapt to the front of the queue to sign Atletico Madrid striker Fernando Torres.

► Tottenham will make a surprise bid to re-sign Mido from Roma.

► Manchester City is close to signing Ajax full-back Hatem Traabeli.

► New Aston Villa boss Martin O'Neill is to return to Celtic to bid for Sulian Petrov.

Confirmed transfers this week:

Michael Carrick [Tottenham - Manchester United] £18.6m

The Only Way Is Up

-What we can learn from Scottish football-

If anyone needs evidence of why we should invest in youth development programs, a study on the demise of Scotland's international team will provide the justification.

A question I often ask people is whether they can name a current world class Scottish player? After a few hints people usually give up and that is when I ask if they can name a previous World Class Scottish player, Ahh! Dalglis, Souness, Jordan, Gemmill, Law, Baxter and maybe a few more.

What happened then is that in a relatively short time a country which has played in six World Cup finals is now rated in the bottom half of FIFA's top 100 list. To place the blame on one factor is an emotional reaction to a far more complicated process and series of events.

Scottish football always provided players for the English leagues since the game's beginning as an organised sport. Indeed the road south guaranteed a larger market than the local home land leagues offered. Add to this the Glasgow giant's high profile standing in the British pecking order of big clubs and Scotland's youth had more choices than other less fortunate young players in other parts of the UK.

"Suddenly young Scottish players had nowhere to go even in the 2nd division, players from Finland, Denmark, Belgium, Ireland and dare I say it Australia, were plying their trade."

Any top ranking English club had a third of their squad born north of the border. This volume of players playing in a high standard of competition with good players and weekly challenges ensured that when national selection came around a squad of in form professionals could be called upon to take on the rest of the world. An extra advantage of these clubs was the regular forays into UEFA Championship competitions where many other international players where on the opposition side and occasionally on the same side.

So an abundance of players playing in high standard competition with other good players amounts to facing your more infamous opposition such as England, Holland, Germany and the former Czechoslovakia on an even ranking. I say this because Scotland has defeated these opponents in regular encounters on many occasions.

But times and circumstances changed in the late eighties and early nineties with political changes in the iron block countries allowed freedom of travel. The European Union meant that visas and work permits were easier to access than before.

This now meant that continental players were avail-

Fresh hope: Scotland's Andy Webster celebrates after scoring against the USA last November able in abundance for the big English clubs, many of them internationals in their own countries. These players were also of equal or higher quality status than their Scottish counterparts and also in many circumstances cheaper to contract. The demand for Scots lessened and the natural option was for the door of the old firm, however Rangers and Celtic were competing in the Champions league and with the need to attract the cable TV dollar meant they also began recruiting overseas. Under its new manager Graham Souness, Rangers were reversing the call and signing up many English internationals with the lure of higher wages than English clubs.

Rangers' success in this period justified more of the same. Celtic having to keep up with their across town neighbours followed suit. The snowball effect continued with all the smaller clubs signing second or some might say third rate foreign players to maintain the challenge. Suddenly young Scottish players had nowhere to go, opportunities were less forthcoming and even in the 2nd division, players from Finland, Denmark, Belgium, Ireland and dare I say it Australia, were plying their trade.

The result of all this foreign inclusion was a more entertaining Premier League and a massive reduction in player registration in the junior ranks. Domestically Rangers and Celtic dominated but in Europe they were dictated by a higher level of more clinical and intense football competition and thus saw no reason to jeopardise their standing by giving young Scot's a chance. All this had a dire impact on the national team and desperate games against ordinary opponents meant the UEFA Nations Cup qualification was a thing of the past and the World Cup now a nostalgic memory. The predictability of the domestic competition has created a two-team dominance with the rest making up the numbers. Rangers and Celtic are caught in the inevitable marketing of their product to the media monster of live football on cable TV. The income needed to survive suggests large financial budgets for operations beyond the first eleven are calculated with ruthless foresight and a cut 'our losses mentality'. Only in the last two years or so has the machine been interrupted and paused with a 'what if we produce our own' idea. To its credit Rangers have built and invested in an Academy Program as strong as most of its European counterparts. It has recently been playing some of their products in first team line ups with a valid performance in consistency with their more experienced team mates.

To its credit Rangers have built and invested in an Academy Program as strong as most of its European counterparts.

Celtic on the other hand are still in planning mode about where and when they will start theirs. Clearly, financial constraint is the main consideration here. One word of caution here - both teams have young players from other parts of the world in their Academy programs.

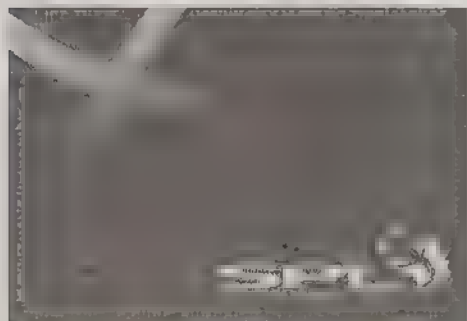

The Scottish National body the SFA have now acted on the problem and are appointing regional officers on a full time basis to oversee the various regions of Scotland with development programs and coaching clinics. Is it a case of too little too late? Only time will tell. One bright note is the Scottish national U19s team lost in the final of the Euro U20 Nations Cup last week. If youth development time frames are anything to go by we can expect Scotland to qualify for the World Cup in 2014 providing our players go abroad and play in the bigger European leagues. This will bring us back full circle to when Law, Jordan, Collins, Lambert etc played in the Italian, German and French leagues. The great Scottish support the Tartan Army and deserve something to sing about other than the Wembley invasion of '77', the second Bannock burn. If only we had a striker like William Wallace.

Until the next time.

TARTAN TALK with Nic Townsend

The season is only a fortnight old, and already the dreaded 'S' word has surfaced: Sectarianism. Unfortunately it's synonymous with Scottish football.

This week Rangers' owner David Murray launched yet another anti-sectarianism campaign, supposedly the strongest yet. And how does Murray plan to end a centuries old conflict steeped in hatred and violence? By presenting fans with the 'Wee Blue Book', a pamphlet of lyrics for 11 inoffensive songs. 'Billy's Boys', the club anthem with the infamous line 'We're up to our knees in Fenian blood', isn't one of them. Not to be outdone by their rivals, Celtic chairman Brian Quinn also publicly urged fans to refrain from sectarian chants this season.

But before people get too excited, and start nominating Quinn and Murray for Nobel Peace prizes, let's first look at their less-than-noble motives. It's no coincidence that these pleas were made in the same week that UEFA announced they would be cracking down on racism and discrimination. Rangers have already been fined by UEFA this year, after fans sang 'Billy's Boys' against Villarreal. This season such chants will attract a minimum £13,000 fine. They could also result in stadium closures, and expulsion from European competitions. Sectarianism could potentially be very costly for these two debt-ridden clubs.

To be fair, David Murray has consistently spoken out against sectarianism ever since he bought Rangers in 1988. It was under his ownership that Rangers finally abolished their Protestants-only policy, and signed their first-ever Catholic player, Maurice Johnston. The club has since signed countless Catholics, including their new manager Paul Le Guen.

But again the motives have been financial. Murray's ambition has always been to see Rangers become one of Europe's elite clubs. But to that, he needs to expand the club's appeal beyond Scotland and Northern Ireland. Bigotry lacks broader appeal, and as an astute businessman, Murray knew he'd never fulfil his vision as long as Rangers were associated with religious hatred.

Celtic have also spent recent years building themselves into a global brand. This week, they were promoting themselves in Japan, with an exhibition match against Yokohama Marinos. When it comes to football most Japanese don't really care what happened on 12th July 1690.

Celtic and Rangers' efforts don't stem from trying to end a long standing divide that has ruined so many people's lives. They're trying to make money.

And there is still a strong argument to be made that neither club has done all they can to stamp sectarianism out completely. Walk into any Rangers shop in Scotland, and you can buy a range of merchandise clad in the Union Jack. Likewise, many Celtic products include the Irish tri-colour, and other Irish-Catholic symbols. Before matches, both clubs play songs over their PA which appeal to sectarian sentiments.

Both clubs have profited from the sectarian divide. Fans are attracted to these clubs, and follow them with such dedication because each represents more than just a football club. They owe their strength and prominence to their fans' hatred of one another. In short, they both need one another, and would lesser clubs without this rivalry. The Old Firm without the politics, religion and history, would just be another football match.

Thus both clubs are walking a delicate tightrope, between the global market place, and their traditional heartlands. They know they need to eradicate bigotry if they're to attract sponsors and build a global following, but also know they can't alienate too many of their traditional supporters.

But what ever happens, I can guarantee you haven't heard 'Billy's Boys' for the last time at Ibrox. Gers fans will sing it with even more zest, in defiance of what they'll see as an attack on their beliefs and traditions. And a 'Wee Blue Book' won't stop them.

Ayway, sectarianism can't hide the fact that some actual football was played this week. In Champions League Hearts held out for a 0-0 draw against Siroki Brijeg in Bosnia last Wednesday. They'll now play AEK Athens in the third qualifying round.

In the SPL, Rangers needed an own goal to come back from 2-0, to draw against Dundee United. Kilmarnock also came from behind to beat Hibs 2-1, despite being outplayed for most of the match. Inverness CT levelled against Aberdeen in the 89th minute, for a 1-1 draw. And both St. Mirren and Falkirk are making a mockery of my preseason preview published last week. The Saints defeated Motherwell 2-0, and Falkirk beat Dumbarton 1-0.

RISING STARS

Preston fans breathe a collective sigh of relief, for your saviour has pledged his loyalty to the Lions for 2007, and possibly beyond.

That saviour is of course, goalkeeper Savas Ozdemir. "I will definitely be with Preston next season, unless I receive a much better offer from a club in a higher league," he confirms. But contain your excitement Lions diehards, because the good news just keeps on coming. Savas admits he still has a great deal of improvement left in his game, a prospect which leaves the Lions in good stead for the future. "I'm only 17, so I'm still very young in goalkeeping terms. I just need to keep working hard and I can achieve something great."

Not to say that he already hasn't. After a demoralising loss to Richmond, fans thought Preston had hit rock bottom. An injury to incumbent goalkeeper Goce Gruevski followed, leaving the Lions reeling. It is certainly hard to believe, that just ten weeks ago this was the situation. Preston was in grave danger of being relegated, and Savas Ozdemir was a little-known face among the reserves at BT Connor Reserve. How times change. The Lions are now just out of the top six, after only two losses in their past nine matches (to the all-conquering Oakleigh no less and most recently to Heidelberg), and that little-known Savas Ozdemir is right at the centre of this form resurgence.

A 3-1 victory over Essendon signalled a good start to Savas's senior career, but the jury was still out. However a consistent string of games followed, which had the Preston faithful singing his praises.

Hard as this is to comprehend, what is even harder to believe is that Ozdemir only began playing football at the age of thirteen, transferring over from basketball. "Yes, this is only my fourth season of football," he admits. "I left basketball because it was too political (the way the game was administered). I had more interest in football, so I joined North Coburg after that, and made the state team in that first season."

And he hasn't taken a backwards step since. He is also looking towards the bigger picture of A-League and professional leagues, which would involve living, eating and breathing football. "I'd love to just wake up in the morning, and think football, and in the day play football and then think football until the moment you go to sleep."

While he may be dreaming this, he is not going to jump at the first opportunity to leave Preston for an overseas team as so many do.

He recognises that to make it overseas, you need to make a name for yourself before you jump on the first flight to Europe. "I've been offered 14 and 21 day trials in Turkey, but you need to be successful beforehand. I realise that you need to go over with a reputation."

A reputation shouldn't be too hard to come by if he keeps modelling himself on his heroes Iker Casillas and Edwin van der Sar. With the help of Goran Lozanovski (head coach at Preston), and his goalkeeping coach John training him hard, and the mental support of Lions goal scoring champion Anthony Magnacca, they will keep him on the path to glory.

Katsa's Korner With George Katsamboukas

A prominent FFV official made the big call to me on Friday night at the Kingston vs Richmond game, and in his own words, "Katsa - it's been a big week in Football."

Senior FFV official It's always a big week in Football here in sunny Melbourne. Coaching changes, player walk-outs, the odd scuffle here and there with appeals on match results makes our week very complete.

I made a big call during the week regarding the four surviving Vodafone Cup coaches and that is that one of them will be sent to the Centrelink office before the season is out.

Prior to last weekend's rounds, Oakleigh coach Stuart Munro and South Melbourne coach John Anastasiadis were as safe as houses to keep their jobs, actually change that to as safe as mansions, however Michael Michalakopoulos and Fawkner-Whittlesea coach John Markovski were on some very shaky ground.

I offered one name of the last two mentioned and I was advised by one of the panel members that the name that I threw into the ring would not lose his job, as that club always stayed loyal to their coach until the season is over. Loyalty to coaches is a word that is missing from the club powerbroker's dictionary!

Vodafone Cup

Things are certainly heating up in the Vodafone Cup. Relegation and the final six places are up for grabs, with too many permutations to mention. Richmond is the surprise packet of the last two months. From relegation certainties, the club now finds itself in the top six.

They were rather impressive on Friday night, even though I only caught the second half, as Katsa was on assignment to the harbour city for the day. Daniel Visovic continues to impress, bagging another two goals against a Kingston City team that looked rather flat. Word going around is that Kenny Murphy has the Kingston boys putting in extra training sessions, made up of plenty of running.

Running at training was never my favourite cup of Scotch, and the only way that I could motivate myself to keep up with the group and finish the session, would be to convince a team mate who was on the brink of producing fluorescent substances from the top end, to go ahead and do it.

"Don't fight nature son - think of those green peas that you had for lunch leaving your stomach" was a usual call that I made, and as this expulsion process was taking place, the player in question would always manage to abuse me in tandem to leaning over the fence, and giving a new meaning to the term barking!

Junior Representatives

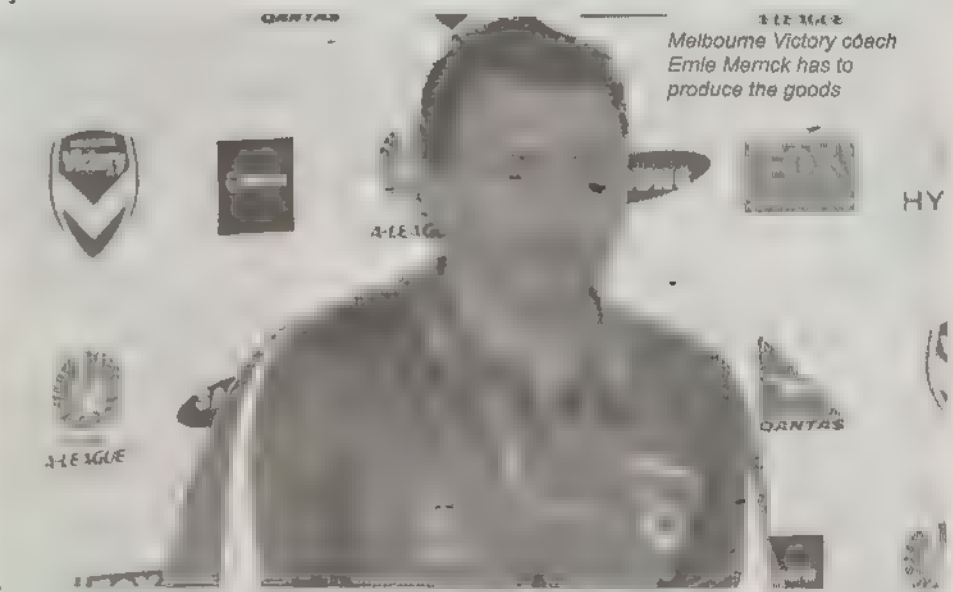

A point of correction was made to me last Monday regarding my comments on funding of Junior State representatives.

Tony Pignatta CEO of the FFV advises that the fees are $2000 and not $2500, and that each state member had to pay an equal amount irrespective of which state he originated from, so as to not penalise states such as WA, that had to travel large distances.

State representatives also now get to keep their strips, which are also embroidered with details of the competition he'd.

Boo made a rather big call last week, as he is wanting to me to now keep a scoreboard on coaching changes in the A-League, as I have been doing with the Vodafone Cup and State League Division 1.

I have never backed down from a challenge, so Boo here we go.

A-League

Ernie Merrick is under enormous pressure to produce results at the Melbourne Victory this year.

His pre season results, with the exception of Saturday's win against the Newcastle Jets, have been far from impressive.

Read what you like on the number one posted above. Does it mean that Ernie's team will finish on top, or does it mean that Ernie will be the first coach to go?

Prove me and your other critics wrong Ernie, you represent a proud sporting city and our team needs to be in the top four all year.

State Leagues

Dropping down a few leagues, actually a lot of leagues, Doveton City who once played as high as the equivalent of today's Vodafone Cup many years ago, have recovered from their relegation to the provisional league last season, and are now in the box seat to get promoted back to the State League.

Coach Sam Elmazi has assembled an experienced squad that have produced the goods.

As the Season is drawing to a close, please keep an eye on all club powerbrokers as some of them may not be able to cope with the sad end that their teams may have for the year.

Remember lads, it's not where we start that matters, but where we finish!

Until next week

This is Katsa, but not as you've known him, and when the fat lady sings, I hope that your team is the winner.

BAYSIDE FOOTBALL LEAGUE

► Premier League

Hampton Park United closed the gap to four points as leaders Western Port again drop valuable points.

With conditions far from been idea on the day with very strong winds creating situations where one team will dominate each half, it put a lot of pressure on defenses that just could not kick it pass their own half.

Mt Lilydale Old Collegians had chance after chance in the first half against Hampton Park United, but their failing to make an impact on the score line eased the pressure on Hampton Park for the second. Hampton Park eventually gains a valuable goal and three points to now be the clear candidate to challenge Western Port for the remaining rounds.

Leaders Western Port Wanderers are starting to show some cracks in their armour as they could only manage a 2 - 2 draw to Knox City. A very solid result for Knox City that keeps Peninsula below them by a point, but at the same did drop a place to Rosebud.

For only the second time this season, Rosebud was able to win back to back matches, and they did it so by thumping Boronia Knights 3 - 1. No team until this point has been able to score so many against the formidable Boronia defense. The win moves Rosebud into seventh, but for Boronia it was a big blow for their championship hopes.

Bayswater Strikers has now leaped into fourth place with a massive 4 - 0 thumping away to third placed Croydon Ranges. This result has also too very much dented Croydon's recent good form and could well spell the end of their championship hopes.

► Reserves

A win next round will be surely enough for Croydon Ranges to clinch their first league title in the Bayside League. With nine point gap and a massive goals for advantage, Boronia Colts has an impossible task.

Croydon Ranges decimated Bayswater Strikers 6 - 0 for their twelfth victory of the season. But for their main challengers Boronia Colts, they dropped two points when they only managed a 2 - 2 draw to ninth place Rosebud.

In other results Mt Lilydale got their sixth draw of the season with a 1 - 1 result at Hampton Park whilst Knox City lost to the ever improving Western Port.

► Division 1

With the title now firmly in the hands of Langwarrin, the chase for second place continues with Brighton Old Boys and Monash Peninsula only two points apart coming into this round.

But for Monash Peninsula they had to play away to the undefeated Langwarrin, and whilst Langy has won the title they very much wish to remain defeated this season. Langwarrin crushed Monash with four unanswered goals that have dented Monash hopes for second place big time. Brighton Old Boys made sure they took advantage of Monash's defeat as they tore apart Boronia Cavaliers 4 - 1. Brighton now has a five point gap in second place.

Baxter Eagles & Cerberus both failed to take advantage of Monash's loss as they drew with each other with a scoreless draw.

Frankston Outlaws made the most of a powerful second half wind to score four times to roll over Mornington Power and win 4 - 1.

► Women's League

Frankston Filbies could not make it two from two as they went down to Cuscatlan 3 - 0. The result was in important for Cuscatlan to remain in second place. The other match Frankston Pines was too good for Rosebud A as they won 2 - 1 at home.

► Division 2

After Parkmore's loss last weekend they had to make sure that they did not drop any more points to the hard charging Cranbourne Gold.

Parkmore was able to secure three points with a 3 - 1 win over Mornington Glory. This result keeps them on top by five points over Cranbourne Comets, who by the way slaughtered Baxter Falcons 8 - 1.

Chelsea Old Boys also stay within three points of second place with a 4 - 2 away win over Boronia Barons.

And finally AC Milanly had to come from a goal behind to over come Montrose with only minutes to play to win 2 - 1.

► Division 3

With the championship already in their hands, Phillip Island has slowed down the pace some what in terms of wins but in regards to goals, well 8 of them was scored in their match against Montrose that ended in a 4 - 4 draw.

The race for second place will go down to the final round next weekend as Rosebud Dinosaurs now lead the way by just one point over Seaford United and two over Montrose. Rosebud got to second place with a huge 5 - 1 win over then second placed Seaford United. And finally in a big upset Croydon Old Boys defeated Frankston Pines 6 - 1!

Club Focus

Baxter Soccer Club

Baxter Soccer Club strength lies within the junior set up. It was only in 2005 that Baxter rejoined the Bayside Football Association in a senior level participation. Whilst it was not the first time that Baxter has fielded a senior team, it certainly has been a while since their last effort.

It did take some time before Baxter acclimatized to the Division 1 as early efforts were met with some heavy defeats. But as the season progressed so did Baxter with the club become a pest to the leading bunch. By the end of the season they were making life hard for the top teams like Peninsula, Langwarrin and Challenge Cup winners Brighton.

Is Baxter up to the challenge of pushing towards a position in the Premier League for 2007?

The only known senior title Baxter has won was the 1997 Bayside Division 1 (known as Division 2 at the time)

Cranbourne Comets

Cranbourne Comets are unusual in that they are strong in both the men's divisions. With three Women's Premier League titles in the clubs trophy cabinet it could have been five, if not for nail biting losses in the Grand Finals to Box Hill Inter in 2004 & 2005.

The men's senior teams has amazingly collected only one league trophy in the FFV and that was in 1997 when they won the State League 3. In 2005 they almost won the State League 2 South East title but for a slump in form gave the Springvale White Eagles the title late into the season.

For the Bayside League, the 2006 season makes the return of the Comets to the league. They have won one title and that was back in 1982 by winning the second division, now known as the division 1.

KRNCEVIC'S KRUNCHLINES

Greetings football fans and welcome to another dose of Krncevic's Krunchlines.

It has been brought to my attention that a particular A-league club coach has informed certain members of his squad that they will not be considered as part of his plans for the soon to commence national competition.

The players are still part of the roster, but have been told they shouldn't get their hopes up of being called upon in the foreseeable future. All this, before a proper ball has even been kicked!! How ridiculous and short sighted. What sort of man management skills is this? How can a player expect to motivate themselves when they've basically been told they're on the outer and not wanted, just as the season proper is about to start?

In my opinion, this kind of approach is short-sighted and lacks of serious coaching experience. How can you expect a player to respond and participate wholeheartedly in any future sessions or feel committed to the club, when it appears that the only opportunity to break in to the first eleven will possibly only come about due to an injury crisis. Players play their best football when they feel wanted and are happy in their respective environments. I just don't understand why one bothers with a twenty man roster, if one doesn't utilise the facility for the entire season. It seems such a pity to waste the allocated squad numbers, whilst not using it to a full advantage. Why such decisions could be entertained so early in the piece is beyond me. A coach should have an open mind, willing to listen to ideas and have the nous to keep their options open. By eliminating potential selection combinations and putting certain players off-side is not the way to go about achieving the best possible results.

Are you Bleeping serious?

I read with interest the other day that the Melbourne Victory's Brazilian recruit Fred broke the club's Beep test record. A beep test normally involves running continuously between two lines, 20m apart, to record the best time. From my experience, hardly anyone in Europe bothers with Beep testing. You're either quick, or you're not quick. I had a lengthy discussion with former Bayern Munich chief Otto Hitzfeld a couple of years ago about some of the fitness methods we use here in Australia. I remember him chuckling about the reliability and validity of the Beep test and the Cooper test. I'd be interested to hear the opinions of other coaches. What is your opinion on timing shuttle runs and running around in circles for 12 minutes? Do you think these tests have any advantages or disadvantages? Drop me a line, I'd be interested to hear your thoughts.

Eagles On a High

Well done to Richmond Eagles for their impressive mid-season turnaround. Entrenched on the bottom of the Vodafone Cup standings at the half-way mark of the season, the boys were starting at a long slog to avoid an immediate return to First Division football. However, an astute coaching change which saw Phil Stubbins take over from Dean Hennessey, was the catalyst needed for the club to collect a staggering 20 points out of a possible 27 and lose only once in nine games. Without taking anything away from Phil, Dean must also be commended for putting the grounding and structure in place with a young, talented squad that was adjusting to promotion and slowly become a competitive Vodafone cup outfit. Unfortunately, from a coach's point of view, football is a results game and time can become a priceless commodity. We have seen it happen many times in the world of football. Never the less, well done to the Kevin Bartlett outfit for becoming one of the success stories of 2006.

Sarkies

Well done to the Victory's Kristian Sarkies for his selection to the Socceroos squad for the upcoming AFC match against Kuwait. I hope he can step up and blossom this year. He is a talented player who is quite capable, but like many youngsters he still needs to remain focussed and disciplined in order to grow as a player. There's no doubt in my mind he has a bright future in front of him and can really go all the way. I wouldn't be surprised if he was snapped up by the end of the season and is another exciting young prospect that tries his luck overseas.

Until next time,

Eddie

Victorian soccer legend Eddie Krncevic represented Australia 35 times and scored 17 goals.

He played professionally in Europe for Dinamo Zagreb (Croatia), MSV Duisberg (Germany), Mulhouse (France) and Anderlecht, FC Liege, Aalst and Charleroi in Belgium.

ing for a place in the finals, when it plays its second qualifying match against Kuwait on August 16 in Sydney. The withdrawal of Lebanon from the qualifying group, means Australia will know of its qualification when it plays its second home game against Bahrain in October, also in Sydney.

The AFC Asian Cup 2007 will be held in the four countries during July with the AFC Competitions Committee making their decision based on certain criteria required in determining which games each country would receive and certain requests of the hosting countries.

The criteria included commitment of the national associations and their respective governments with regard to the competition requirements. This includes infrastructure, the addressing of security measures, the commitment to promote the event, and the protection of commercial rights.

The opening game in Bangkok will be held on July 7, 2007, with the final in Jakarta, scheduled for July 29, 2007.

AFC President, Mohamed bin Hammam, commented today, "This is a great milestone in the planning stages of this festival of football across the Asian region. He continued, "Our decision reflects the strengths and the wishes of the respective national associations. I am delighted that Thailand offered to host the Opening Ceremony, and also look forward to three very professionally staged Matches with the two Semi-finals and the Final in the other three Venues. We are putting great trust into these national associations...I am sure they will deliver".

Meanwhile...

The AFC confirmed through their Competitions Committee that they have accepted Lebanon's request to withdraw from the qualifiers for the 2007 AFC Asian Cup.

Australia's qualifying group which included Lebanon along with Bahrain and Kuwait will now be a pool of three nations with Kuwait's 1-1 draw with Lebanon declared null and void.

The Qantas Socceroos were scheduled to play Lebanon at Adelaide Oval on 31 August and again in Beirut on 15 November.

"We accept the decision of the AFC Competitions Committee and our sympathy and best wishes go to the Lebanon FA. We hope that they can restore normal working operations as soon as possible," said Mr John O'Neill.

"We're very disappointed for the sporting fans of South Australia who have given great support to Adelaide United and the recent AFC Asian's Women's Championships. I'd like to also thank the South Australian Government and SACA for their enthusiasm and support in bringing the Qantas Socceroos to Adelaide."

"The FFA will continue to work with Events SA to create an opportunity for the Qantas Socceroos to play in Adelaide as soon as possible."

FOOTBALL FOCUS... with Dean Anastasiadis

Club: South Melbourne

Position: Goalkeeper

Age: 36

Height: 6'2"

Weight: 92kg

Nickname: Deano

Previous clubs: Yarraville Glory, Port Melbourne, Fawcner/Whittlesea, Carlton United (NSL), Collingwood warriors (NSL), Wollongong Wolves (NSL).

Outfield player you most enjoy watching in the VPL? Fernando De Morares.

In the world? Buffon. Brilliant.

Hardest striker and team to keep against? Kingston's Michael Curcija loves playing against me and Oakleigh this year have many boys who are capable of scoring.

Occupation? Manage a couple of servo's (family business)

Craziest team mate of all time? George Souris from Wollongong was a bit of a nutter. Always making the boys laugh with his shenanigans.

Most influential coach of all time? Many coaches had some form of influence, Ron Corry from Wollongong, and current goalkeeping coach John Sideris mostly though.

Most memorable match as a player? It would have to be the Grand Final win with Wollongong vs South Melbourne in 2000/01. We won 2-1 and my brother John actually scored against me that day.

As a fan? Two games which are hard to split. The Greece win in the Euro's and that fateful night in Sydney when Australia beat Uruguay

Where were you when Australia drew 2-2 with Iran? At the game

And when Australia qualified for the World Cup against Uruguay? At the game.

Did you watch Australia's World Cup campaign in Germany? I watched all the Aussie games.

Representative honours? Played one game for Australia against New Caledonia in 2002 (Oldest ever debut for Australia 32 y.o.) and Victorian State team.

Have you ever scored a goal?

I once scored from a kick out, apart from that I don't remember too many others

Worst injury: Snapped a bone in my foot two weeks before the start of the 2003-04 season which kept me out the whole season.

Funniest moment in football? The infamous Ange Goutzoulis incident with Les Scheinflug

Record number of juggles in single attempt?

Are you serious!! I'm a keeper

Steak, chicken parma or seafood? Steak.

Chips, veggies or salad? Definitely chips

Pizza, souvlaki or cevape? Love a good souvlaki which is hard to find, but I definitely eat a lot more pizzas than anything else

Favourite drink, non alcoholic and alcoholic? Coke zero as the n/a and Drambuie Favourite nightspot? Once upon a time ago the Prince of Wales was a good spot.

Favourite holiday destination? Greek Islands, Of course!

Kitchen whiz or home handyman? Where's the kitchen? Definitely the latter

What's in the CD player right now? My daughters Hi Five CD

Dream date? Any date these days with my wife is always a pleasure, and Eva Mendes can come along too!

First team-mate you'd invite to a party, and why? Nick Curtis. He laughs at my jokes all the time...even the bad ones.

On the end of season trip, the last player to shout drinks will be... Haven't been away with the current group but Fernando has deep pockets

Match day superstitions or rituals? As long as I get a good sleep in I'm pretty flexible Typical matchday meal? A home made pasta is a must!

Favorite sporting team when growing up? Richmond

What are your strengths? Never liked answering these next two questions..

What are your weaknesses? See above

Ten pin bowling or skydiving? Sky diving.. love the adrenalin

Toughest opponent? Myself

Select a player that you play most like? I always loved watching Schmittel play and modelled my game on him.

Which team do you select when playing soccer on a computer game? Nationally it's Australia, club level it's Arsenal.

What is the last soccer shirt you bought? Ah..... haven't really bought one Funniest rumour you have heard about yourself? Plenty of rumours over the years but the cocaine addict one was the funniest.

Childhood soccer idol? I always looked up to my brother

Favorite former Socceroo? Paul Trim-boli

Favourite Current Socceroo? Bresciano and Grella

What song or movie to do you get inspiration from? Greek (pontian) music inspires me on match day.

Do you watch Footballers Wives? No... but I see my wife all the time.

Best away ground you like to visit? Perth Oval

If I didn't play football I'd play... AFL

What fictional character would you most like to be; why? John Rambo in First Blood. Loved the movie and still do.

Hollywood is making a movie about your career. Who would you select to play you in a movie? That's a tough one, maybe Vin Diesel Thanks Dean and good luck!
